'Red Dreams'

Young Nurse 'Ages' In Long Cave Test

NICE, France (UPI) — A pretty young French midwife emerged Friday after living 88 days alone in an Alpine cave. She found she was two weeks older than she thought.

"I made it Feb. 25 by my reckoning," Nurse Josie Laurens, 26, told reporters after reporters brought her out into the sunshine after her voluntary ordeal 328 feet underground.

LONELINESS

Mrs. Laurens had been in the French Alpine cave since Dec. 14 as part of an unofficial French experiment to test the reactions of the human mechanism to conditions of isolation and loneliness similar to those of space flight.

"I was never bored," Mrs. Laurens said. "I read, I knitted, I wrote letters and listened to music on my tape recorder. But the last few days were getting increasingly tough on me. I felt a bit dejected and lost interest in everything around me."

Mrs. Laurens said the worst thing she experienced was the relentless red color of the walls of her cave, illuminated by her electric lamp.

FLOATING ON AIR

"At times I became obsessed by seeing everything red," she said. "I even had red dreams."

When she first emerged in her mud-stained, red-quilted coveralls, the French nurse said: "I feel as if I am floating on air. I feel like an old woman."

The cave where the nurse spent her lonely 88 days was as big as a four-room apartment. She had a white mouse and three goldfish for company and played tape recordings of Beethoven and Mozart.

Colleagues Told

Pearson Weighing Election Chances

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson has informed close cabinet colleagues he is thinking of calling an early general election, informed sources say.

The informants said the prime minister outlined his views on a possible election at a war council with five key cabinet ministers Wednesday evening at his Sussex Drive residence.

TOP ECHELON

At the meeting were his Quebec leader, Justice Minister Guy Favreau; the Liberal party's campaign co-chairman, Finance Minister Gordon; Mr. Pearson's senior cabinet colleague, External Affairs Minister Martin; Transport Minister Pickersgill; and Labor Minister MacEachen.

The prime minister is understood to have made no definite decision to call an election. In fact sources said many of his ministers, and probably a majority of the party's parliamentary caucus, are opposed to one at this time.

Those opposed to an election now argue Mr. Pearson's motivation—to deliver another blow to Opposition Leader Diefenbaker and to win a majority to produce a better climate in the Commons—is not a sufficient reason for calling a vote.

By DOROTHY HOWARTH

MONTREAL (TNS) — Looking as hard and polished as a pawnshop diamond, Eddy Lechasseur, Lucien Rivard's best friend, came out of hiding here to tell me Rivard is not in Montreal.

"He wouldn't hide in town," the dapper little ex-convict said. "I wouldn't."

"With the experience I've got, everybody who hides in town gets caught."

EDDY'S EXPERIENCE

Eddy's experience includes a string of nine convictions, which was filed with the Dorion inquiry when Lechasseur testified about his efforts to help Rivard out of "pure friendship."

It also includes a total of 10 months in Bordeaux Jail for breaking and entering and manslaughter.

This is the provincial lockup that Rivard, Eddy's partner in importing unmarketable gad-

Letter from Lucky:

Is Lucien Rivard already out of the country?

The "Lucky Lucy" of the Dorion inquiry, now one of the most wanted men in Canada's history after escaping last week from Bordeaux Jail in Montreal, indicates that he was ready to leave some time ago.

The disclosure came in a letter to Mrs. Rivard, postmarked Vancouver.

However, the letter was interpreted as a feint to throw them off the track by police, who still had not seen the letter last night.

An English translation of the letter was received late yesterday afternoon by The Daily Colonist.

The key part of the letter read:

"I'm leaving tomorrow for elsewhere. So in 15 days I will write you a word and if I find what I want and you want to join me, this will be a great pleasure to me."

Full text of the letter (translated from the French):

Heart. It's with great pleasure I am taking a moment of liberty to write a few words.

I hope that your health is good, also your family and my family.

My health is excellent but I am very tired.

Darling, I am very sorry for all the bad publicity I caused you and my mother.

Please forgive me, Angel, for all the sadness I am causing you, but it is a decision I took after your visit on Tuesday.

(To Bordeaux Jail the day Rivard broke out.) Maybe you will think I lost my head but I thought that it was the only open door left for me.

It's too bad I did not think of this escape before because I would have directions to give concerning my case and our future "reunion."

This will be for later, if you still care for me.

This would have been so simple if they would have given me bail at first. Then

Police Insist:

Rivard Still In Montreal

MONTREAL (CP)—Quebec provincial police are convinced fugitive Lucien Rivard wrote a letter to his wife with a Vancouver postmark to "trick" police into thinking he had fled Montreal.

"We think the letter is a trick, and we're still convinced Rivard is in Montreal," said Sub-Inspector Jean Gagnon.

"Why should he go to Vancouver? Montreal is a big town. There are a million places he can hide out here, where he has a lot of friends in the underworld."

REGULAR MAIL

The four-page letter written in French, with the envelope flaps glued together indicating it had been opened and sealed again, was delivered by regular mail to Rivard's wife Marie Tuesday.

She said in a brief interview at her north-end home Friday that the letter, dated March 6—four days after Rivard's escape—was from her husband.

WRONG TRACK?

Insp. Gagnon said police believe Rivard wrote the letter, but that it was mailed from Vancouver by somebody else.

In Quebec City, Attorney-General Claude Wagner agreed that the letter was obviously "a move to put police on the wrong track."

"It seems to me that this is a strategy to get the people interested in Rivard's capture to direct the search toward Vancouver, while I'm convinced he is in Montreal. The whole matter about the letter is fishy."

SAYS RED-HERRING

Mr. Wagner said he had discussed the letter with Joseph Brunet, director of the Quebec provincial police in Montreal, and both agreed it was a diversionary action by Rivard.

Word that the letter had been received by Mrs. Rivard was first reported by Frenchy Jarrault, a Montreal broadcaster who announced it over radio station CJMS.

Jarrault said he got a telephone tip about the letter for which publication rights were later bought by Dimanche-Matin, a Montreal French-language weekly, and The Toronto Telegram, with other English-

Governor to Governor: You're More Guilty

Egan

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. space agency said Friday the first orbital flight of two astronauts in a Gemini spacecraft may be attempted Monday, March 22.

A telegram unsurpassed in U.S. political history was sent Friday by Alaska Governor William Egan to Alabama Governor George Wallace.

"From the depths of my heart, George Wallace, I consider you to be even more guilty than those who wielded the actual weapons that murdered James J. Reeb."

"When your judgment day comes, I hope that God, in his infinite grace, can find some way to lead mercy for your soul."

Selma Bans All Marches

SELMA, Ala. (AP)—The city council voted Friday not to permit any further racial protest marches in Selma.

The action came as rain-soaked Negroes stood at a police barricade and pledged to walk to the courthouse in memory of a slain Boston minister.

The stalemate thwarted an attempted compromise by Mayor Collins, here as President Johnson's representative. Collins said city officials had agreed earlier to allow Negroes to walk in small groups to the courthouse. There hundreds of them had sought for weeks to register to vote.

In other developments today:

At President Johnson's direction, an airplane flew to Birmingham to pick up Reeb's widow and father. The clergyman's body was cremated Thursday night and the ashes taken to the Casper, Wyo., home of the father.

After four hours of consultations in Washington on the Alabama civil rights problem, Johnson was quoted as saying he "will not be blackballed by any pressure of picketing" into precipitate action.

Johnson agreed to confer with Alabama Governor George Wallace. "I will be available in my office at any time that is convenient to you," he told Wallace, who had telegraphed the White House for an appointment.

Opposition members of the legislature lashed out Friday at a government bill designed to subsidize medical insurance premiums of low-income groups.

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan led the attack by declaring the bill "not a true health measure, not a true medicare plan."

He said the New Democratic Party supports the principle that every citizen has a right to medical care.

"This government believes medical care is a privilege to be granted on the basis of financial status," he said.

"Money or the lack of money will be the qualifying factor."

The opposition leader said that to say the bill provides for a means test "is absolutely false."

MUST BE POOR

"The individual's ability to prove he is poor will determine his right to qualify for subsidies under the bill."

Under the proposed Medical Grants Act, the government will pay half the premiums of approved non-profit insurance carriers for all persons who pay no income tax and 25 per cent of the premiums of those whose taxable income is under $1,000 a year.

The bill also provides for a stabilization fund under which premiums of poor risks would be held to a maximum level. The government would pay $1,000,000 a year into the fund.

IMPEDES PROGRESS

The NDP speakers said they would vote against the bill in second reading (approval in principle because the proposed voluntary plan would only impede progress toward a comprehensive scheme.

William Hartley (NDP—Yale) said the legislature was being asked "to do less than nothing."

The plan was a road block to progress.

Debate on second reading went on nearly three hours and did not reach a vote.

HALF OF LOAF

Premier Bennett said the NDP policy was: "If you can't give them a whole loaf don't give them half a loaf."

The premier declared his government is firmly committed to joining a national health plan as soon as one is devised.

He said the NDP wanted B.C. to introduce a plan similar to Saskatchewan's, which had created "civil warfare."

"Class warfare, that's what you're for," he shouted.

$4,000,000 Missing From Bank

NICE, France (AP)—The director of the Bank of Nice was found dead Friday and the bank closed down for an inventory.

Investigators found only $6,000 of the bank's listed deposits of $4,000,000, first reports said. If the money is lost, it could mean financial ruin for several construction companies, a number of other large businesses and many local depositors on the Riviera.

OAR IN WATER

A judicial inquiry had been opened against the bank's director, Louis Martinon, to determine if there had been any embezzlement. He was found dead at the wheel of his car under 13 feet of water in a reservoir.

COSTLY PROJECT

Martinon, 51, had been heavily involved in a large development project, including an amusement park, swimming pool and miniature train. Riviera business circles said the project had drained Martinon's entire personal fortune and he was struggling for additional funds to keep from losing it.

Martinon took over management of the bank in 1963 on the death of his father, the founder.

MEDELLIN, Colombia (AP)—Carlos Mejia Flores, the kidnapped nine-year-old son of a millionaire rancher-industrialist was rescued Friday in an afternoon raid on a house on the outskirts of Medellin. Four persons were arrested and charged with kidnapping.

MEDELLIN, Colombia (AP)—The final runner will attempt to present the torch to President Johnson Tuesday.

Civil rights lawyers tried in federal court at Montgomery to obtain an order allowing a Selma-to-Montgomery protest march.

Johnson agreed to confer with Alabama Governor George Wallace. "I will be available in my office at any time that is convenient to you," he told Wallace, who had telegraphed the White House for an appointment.

'Leaving for Elsewhere'

I would have been able to prove my innocence.

With all the pressure from Mr. Lamontagne and the RCMP it is very easy to see it's a nice "frame up" because you know My Darling I am innocent of the crime they accuse me of.

To hear they talking, Mr. Heart, I am as rich as a millionaire.

If it is true I own so much money I would have never worked 15 to 18 hours a day, and this seven days a week, doing anything from plumbing, electricity, digging, etcetera. You can see they are a big bunch of imbeciles.

The only thing that was interesting me, besides trying to do something nice with the beach (Place Ideal) was your happiness and to make you happy, and working hard enough so that I can assure a good life for later on, and so I could retire and grow old quietly and happily.

All those beautiful dreams are finished.

That is the reason I ran away, for I can see that I will never be able to have justice here in Canada.

I thank you for those 3 1/2 years of happiness you have given me, and I also thank God who put you on my road, and I also ask him forgiveness for all the sadness and trouble I am causing you.

Ma Cheri, I love you from the bottom of my heart. You are and will always be my only and unique love.

I would have liked so much to make you happy, you who have always been so good for me. You always thought of the first and you always helped me. For me it was always a great joy to run home to you. There's no mistake about it, we were very happy.

You are my only reason to live and my only aim in life.

All is finished now with all those and the inquiry (Dorion inquiry).

There, too, you know it's all lies. The government spent $300,000 to find out what?

Where would I have found $20,000 to pay Mr. Lamontagne so he will not object to the request for bail?

It's crazy, it's ridiculous. But leave that "sickness" for the moment.

Darling I'm leaving tomorrow for elsewhere. So in 15 days I will write you a word and if I find what I want and you want to join me, this will be a great pleasure to me.

I love you so much my love, in a way you would be better off to stay with your family, for you may be very unhappy with me now that I am obliged to run all the time.

I am leaving you Darling, but on this paper only, because I am with you in my thoughts day and night.

A million of kisses from your husband, who loves you madly.

Adieu, maybe, My Heart. Please forgive me.

Lucien.

language newspapers also receiving rights to publish it.

Both Mr. Wagner and director Brunet say they have not seen the letter, and Wagner said there have been no efforts on the part of police to get the original copy.

He said this was "because our investigation of this phase of the case has not reached that stage yet."

Mr. Wagner also said a charge of possessing an offensive weapon—a blackjack—probably will be brought against Edouard Lechasseur, a friend of Rivard who was taken into custody in connection with the case.

DISCOUNT CLAIM

Mr. Wagner was asked to comment on a claim by David Cowlishaw, Vancouver leader of an organization called Underdog, that he (Cowlishaw) knows where Rivard is hiding.

"Quebec police are not taking this into account at all," Mr. Wagner said.

In another development, Deputy Commissioner J. R. Lemieux of the RCMP in Ottawa, who also testified at the Dorion hearings, arrived unexpectedly in Montreal for a one-day visit.

ROUTINE VISIT

RCMP officials said the visit was routine, and had no connection with the Rivard hunt.

which was strictly a QPP operation.

Commissioner Lemieux said Interpol, the international police force, "has been made thoroughly familiar with the case because one thing is certain—Rivard can't stay under-cover forever."

In Vancouver a police spokesman said Rivard is known to have friends and relatives in the area.

"But exactly for this reason he must know that Vancouver is one of the most likely places police will look for him. Rivard is very smart. It's unlikely that he's here. If this alleged letter to his wife has been posted in Vancouver, it's probably just a trick to give the impression he's here."

MANY REPORTS

He said police received three reports last week from people who claimed they had seen Rivard on the British Columbia Lower Mainland. But Rivard was also reported seen in other places in Canada and the United States.

He said he expected Rivard would get in touch with him "but not just yet."

"Lucien was the captain of his wing at Bordeaux. He was in charge of all the 'employees'—they are the prisoners who do all odd jobs like carrying food trays, washing dishes, cleaning floors, making beds, bringing towels—just like in a hotel.

GUARDS TRUSTED RIVARD

"The guards trusted and liked him because he was a good prisoner and managed many people for them. It must have come to a stage where they had confidence in him."

"Even the governor liked him because he was diplomatic and stopped fights among other prisoners."

"I don't see Durocher (Andre) with him unless he was the only one he could trust. It was a two-man job. They had to tie up four guards and he needed help with the ladder."

"I think Lucien and Durocher are still together because if they split up, Durocher is going to be caught, because he is not smart like Lucien."

Your Good Health

Infrequent Bowel Movement Not Necessarily Dangerous

By JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 32 years old. My bowels move once every two weeks. This has been the pattern for as long as I can remember. However, I have never consulted a doctor or worried about this, as I have never noticed any bad effects. Is my pattern abnormal, or is it dangerous to my health?—B. C.

I'd say your pattern is extremely unusual; I will not say that it is abnormal or dangerous.

There is no set frequency. True, for most people a movement once a day or every two days is natural and correct. They should stick to this pattern or rhythm.

But I have known others for whom a slower rhythm was correct—every several days or for some once a week. I can't say that I know of any longer span than that, but I'm not ready to call it impossible.

However, because of the one-a-day myth, some people fly into a panic if they go longer, and begin tampering with their systems with physics and enemas. Some of them create real problems for themselves by trying to force the body to accept a rhythm it doesn't need or want.

In this once-in-two weeks pattern, if there is no discomfort and there are no symptoms of trouble, I don't think we dare say, without further investigation, that there necessarily is any harm to your health.

There are, however, several possible factors leading to this condition. Some people of lean build have a ptosis, or drooping of the abdominal organs. The bowel may be unusually dilated, or lack good muscular tone. Hence it may retain a larger amount of waste material before finally discharging it. (I certainly know enough people with "nervous colons" or colitis who would gladly exchange their condition for yours!)

GOOD RULE:

You may, perhaps, have fallen into the habit of ignoring the urge for a movement. In such cases a bowel gets into the habit of not providing a strong urge until it absolutely must. A good rule for anyone is never to ignore a bowel urge.

Finally food (and fluid) intake has a great deal to do with it. If you habitually eat foods with inadequate bulk, it takes longer for enough residue or waste to accumulate. The person who habitually eats a lot of high-residue foods (fruits and vegetables, especially those containing a lot of fibres; bran, nuts, etc.) will accumulate more cellulose "bulk" or waste.

Inadequate water or fluid intake can result in sluggishness. Thus in your case, I would want to know a good deal more about your build, your habits, what and how much you eat and drink.

EATING HABITS

An X-ray of your colon would be most helpful in determining its size and noting whether any abnormality exists.

If, for example, movements are hard and painful, I'd certainly try different eating habits. Observation of any possible signs of vitamin deficiency would be in order. If you eat a diet too low in residue it may mean you are not getting enough vitamins.

Your extremely slow rhythm, I should think, would be well worth some observation by your doctor. But if he can't find anything wrong, I'd just put you down as an unusual case and let it go at that. But if something is wrong—you're young. Get busy and modify your habits or diet. Don't, however, assume that once-a-day is correct for everybody. It isn't.

Laing

'Small' Find Near Dawson

NANAIMO—Oil was discovered early this week in the Yukon, 80 miles north of Dawson City, Northern Affairs Minister Arthur Laing disclosed Friday during a guest speech to a Rotary luncheon.

He did not elaborate except to say the strike was not large and a large scale drilling program will begin in the area by 1968.

He said wildcaters working in the high Arctic have not been successful in their search for oil but iron ore found on Baffin Island has a concentration of 60 per cent, higher than anywhere else in the world.

Mr. Laing predicted a boom in the Yukon and the Northwest Territories with the development of the Pine Point Railway and the increased effort going into the search for new resources.

He described the north as Canada's last frontier and said "We must have a united Canada more than 100 miles from the U.S. border in order to build this nation in depth. The outlook for the north is very good."

Development of resources is the way to get our money back in that territory, he said.

END OF CENTURY
"It would be better if Canada owned more of its own resources but I predict that by the end of the century it will be a seller's market."

Mr. Laing urged Canadians to study more seriously the water resources of the north.

8,000 More

Civil Service Given Added Jurisdiction

New legislation will bring about 8,000 B.C. government employees under jurisdiction of the civil service.

This is one of many changes proposed in bills brought in by Attorney-General Robert Bonner as the session ends its seventh week Friday.

JURISDICTION
Government employees affected are in the fish and game branch, sheriff's office, probation staff, university endowment lands administration office, ferry authority, provincial jails and the liquor control board.

The move, raising civil service staff from 11,000 to 19,000, is designed to stop pyramiding of government workers in the province, officials said.

The civil service commission will now have control over all hiring.

Another change alters the Civil Service Act, to permit keeping senior employees on staff.

At present civil servants must retire at age 65, although the cabinet can extend their employment up to a year in three-month jumps.

EXPERIENCE
New legislation will permit five-year extensions up to age 70, where "by reason of experience and physical fitness it is in the public interest."

The bills also provide for elimination of the three-month minimum jail sentence imposed for third convictions on some liquor offences.

The government also introduced legislation that will wipe out the three-month waiting period for granting liquor licenses to restaurants and dining lounges.

In Five Years

$1,500,000 in Grants Available for Parks

Recreation Minister Kenneth Kiernan said Friday he hopes $1,500,000 will be spent on regional parks on southern Vancouver Island in the next five years.

The estimate is based upon legislation introduced in the House Friday which permits the government to make grants covering one-third of the total spent on regional park development in any year.

FULL UTILIZATION
The 1965 budget contains $325,000 for this purpose making a total budget, based upon full utilization, of some $1,000,000 a year.

The minister said he expected $300,000 a year to be spent on southern Vancouver Island.

ACQUIRE PROPERTY
During the initial stages of the program, Mr. Kiernan said, he hopes that regional authorities would spend the bulk of money available on acquisition of property rather than park development.

Greater Victoria isn't expected to use the petition method set out in the parks bill to set up a regional authority.

ALTERNATIVE
This is to be an alternative to mini-metro and Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell said yesterday he will continue to press for a joint services board set-up here.

He said the government considers the sewer needs of this area to be seriously lacking and will continue to say so publicly until the situation is remedied.

"I was recently asked by Greater Victoria municipalities about a fireworks bylaw," Mr. Campbell said.

"Joint services for this area could start on just this one thing and later be extended to cover sewer services, regional planning and perhaps air pollution."

Teachers' Convention

Adaptability Vital Educators Declare

Two educators called Friday for flexible programs and an adaptable education system, in addresses to Greater Victoria Teachers' Association convention.

"We must make our schools more adaptable, exercising long-range planning," said Dr. John Andrews, president of the Council on School Administration in Alberta.

In the morning session, Dr. Malcolm Gordon Taylor, president of the University of Victoria, said:

"We have always adapted to change, and we must do so again."

LACK PLANNERS
Dr. Andrews addressed delegates at the afternoon session, commenting:

"One reason for the present lack of long-range planning is that we don't employ the kind of people in education who can make these projections, and see how society is going to change in the next decade."

"We must keep in mind not only physical changes, but society's changing values. Education must never be too far ahead or behind society's changes."

KEEP IN TOUCH
Dr. Andrews said educators must keep in contact with society, not be a closed group.

"It is desirable to move authority down from the department to the school board level, from the board to the school, and then from school to classroom."

He said some of the uniformity that characterizes the school system must be reduced.

WRONG ERROR
"Obviously we have to stop diversification short of chaos. But I think we have erred more on the side of stagnation through uniformity than we have erred on the side of chaos through diversification."

The convention continues today, with a morning general assembly to be addressed by Dr. Earl C. Kelley, education professor at Wayne State University in Detroit, Mich.

SYMPOSIUM
A symposium will be held in the S. J. Willis auditorium at 1 p.m., with addresses by Dr. Taylor, Dr. Andrews, Dr. Kelley, and B.C. Gillie, superintendent of schools for the Northwest Territories.

Proposed changes in Saanich's commercial zoning will be dealt with at a public hearing set for 7:30 p.m. March 29 in the municipal hall.

If approved, the new plan will replace Saanich's present single commercial zone with a multiple arrangement designed to accommodate virtually all types of development.

St. Joseph's Fire Drill

Staff Members Show No Panic

By PATRICK O'NEILL

Fire and hospital officials have expressed confidence in the ability of St. Joseph's Hospital to meet a major emergency, following a surprise evacuation and fire drill in the hospital Friday.

The alarm caught 367 personnel on duty unaware, and the evacuation of simulated patients was a twist none expected.

But it was the administration and fire department officials who were surprised and pleased with the speed and efficiency with which the staff reacted to the situation.

ALL IN PLACE
"They all performed their duties very well," said hospital administrator Sister Mary Ann Celesta. "Everyone was in place quickly, and they all did the right thing."

Hospital public relations director Bill Stone pointed out "when the location of the 'fire' was announced, not one staff member came to see what was wrong or get in the way."

"They stayed at their posts and did what they were supposed to do."

NOT A HIT
Sister Mary Lucia, director of nursing services, supervised staff members who shut all doors and windows in the hospital.

The 13 nursing units on duty went through prescribed drill procedures without a hitch.

Assistant administrator Pat Blewett pointed to several small mistakes but the general exercise was an outstanding success.

Hospital security officer Jim Coates was in charge of the exercise.

He said, before setting off the alarm, that he would be happy if the evacuation could be done in 10 minutes.

Student nurses came from the nurses' residence, were told to evacuate 15 people lying in a hallway on the second floor, and two by two carried the 'patients' down two flights of stairs.

Time from start to finish: eight minutes and 30 seconds.

Wheat Sales Announced
OTTAWA (CP) — Sales involving 4,300,000 bushels of wheat to Russia and Bulgaria have been announced as the result of a visit to Moscow by members of the Canadian wheat board.

Trade Minister Sharp said in the Commons Friday.

Both are under previously arranged long-term agreements.

FANS LIKE IT!

He asked for a nationalistic attitude toward Canada's water resources—"Our American neighbors talk in terms of continental resources. Canada's waterways should be talked of as a Canadian resource."

The B.C. minister said he was pleased with the progress being made by the Eskimo people, especially their increasing birthrate and the virtual end of tuberculosis.

FEW SUFFERING
Ten years ago, 30 per cent of the Eskimo population was afflicted with TB, today few Eskimos suffer from the disease.

The present birth rate is 45 per thousand, compared to the national average of 26 per thousand.

CHEMAMUS — Driver Thom as C. Wheeler of North Vancouver suffered head lacerations Thursday when his car went out of control and rolled over on a quarter mile south of the Chemamus River bridge.

The quantity of British Columbia crude oil used in the Vancouver refineries dropped sharply in 1964 from the 1963 level.

In its annual report for 1964, Trans Mountain Oil Pipe Line says that it picked up an average of 23,663 barrels of B.C. oil a day from the Western Pacific terminal at Kamloops for delivery to Vancouver.

This was 5,076 barrels a day less than the 28,739 barrels average of 1963, or a difference of nearly 1,900,000 barrels a year.

The decline in use of B.C. oil was not in line with the level of production at the Vancouver refineries, which used 72,324 barrels a day in 1964 against 64,533 barrels in 1963, an increase of 12.1 per cent. The extra crude used came via Trans Mountain's system from Alberta.

Slow development of new oil fields in British Columbia is said to be mainly the reason for the drop in utilization.

Trans Mountain Oil Pipe Line estimates it will pick up about 24,000 barrels of B.C. oil at Kamloops in the first quarter of 1965.

SECOND WELL COMPLETED

Peace River Petroleum has successfully completed its second natural gas well in the Monkman Pass area of north-eastern B.C. President George Richardson said the same gas zone encountered in the first well had been tapped in the second. A third well is to be drilled immediately.

Mr. Richardson said the prospects of a really big gas field were shaping up.

Bralorne Pioneer Mines Limited is to sink its Queen shaft at Bralorne another 480 feet to explore the 77 vein on the 42 and 43 levels.

PEACE VENTURE ENDED

Holders of shares in the now defunct Peace River Power Development Company have received 57 cents a share for their part in the project initiated by Wenner Gren.

A final payment of 7 cents a share has been made. Earlier 50 cents had been paid on each share.

While the public paid $1 a share when the issue was distributed, most of the major shareholders got in at prices ranging from 33 cents up.

The money to the Peace River shareholders came from the B.C. government which paid the company $3,000,000 as compensation for appropriation.

Six of 10 Canadian hotels owned by the Canadian National Railways made profits last year, the Senate transportation committee was told in Ottawa Thursday.

Officials said the Newfoundland Hotel, St. John's, the Nova Scotian in Halifax, the Charlottetown Hotel which has since been sold to a private Prince Edward Island Corporation, the Queen Elizabeth Hotel in Montreal, the Macdonald Hotel in Edmonton, and Jasper Park Lodge in Jasper, Alta., finished 1964 with profits.

Hotels showing losses were the Chateau Laurier in Ottawa, the Fort Garry in Winnipeg, the Westborough in Saskatoon and the Hotel Vancouver.

Legislation Introduced On Parks, Mini-Metro

By IAN STREET
Legislative Reporter

New legislation covering mini-metro and regional parks was introduced in the legislature Friday.

The cabinet would exercise wide powers under amendments to the Municipal Act for the creation of new regional districts for joint services.

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell, who introduced the bill in the House, later assured reporters that municipalities would choose services to be provided on a regional basis.

TALKS PLEDGED
He said letters patent setting up the new regional districts would be settled by negotiation with the municipalities involved.

Joint services may cover anything from metro police and sewers to area-wide firework regulations.

The parks bill, introduced by Recreation Minister Kenneth Kiernan, permits regional boards to be set up by petition of municipalities in the area affected.

PARK PROPERTY
It limits municipal contributions to one mill of school taxes in any given year, and provides government grants up to one third of the total spent each year on regional parks.

Mr. Kiernan said he would encourage municipalities to spend the bulk of available funds on acquisition of park property in initial stages.

Mr. Campbell said the changes in the Municipal Act mean the government has turned its back on metro government and wholesale amalgamation.

"This is just another administrative tool to be used when regional functions are desirable," the minister said.

NO PROVISION
Mr. Campbell said it was permissive legislation even though there is no specific statutory provision for municipalities to stay out of joint services.

Key to what he called the new functional approach to regional problems was the formulating of letters patent for regional districts.

These would name and set boundaries to the new district, name the member municipalities and basis for voting, and set powers and duties of the regional authority and apportion payment for joint services.

It will be a matter of department policy, the minister said, to win full agreement on these matters before obtaining a cabinet order setting up the new regional district.

The bill provides that the minister may recommend to the cabinet setting up of a regional district.

OBJECTIONS
Copies of his recommendation must be submitted first to the council of the area affected and local authorities have 30 days to file in writing any objections they may have to being included in the joint services set-up.

In such cases the minister may appoint a commission to inquire into and report on objections.

The commission would have full powers to call witnesses, hear testimony under oath, order the production of documents, and punish for contempt.

CAN ORDER REPORT
Expenses of commission hearings would be borne by the government but in cases which led to incorporation of a regional district the local authority would be billed.

The bill provides for boundaries to be set and elections held to determine representatives for unorganized areas to be included in regional districts.

Members of the regional board, appointed for two-year terms by council and elected in unorganized areas, would be called "municipal directors."

Mr. Campbell said "real municipal controls" over the regional body would be exercised through right of approval of annual budgets for joint services.

FINAL APPROVAL
The regional district budget must be prepared by Dec. 31 and councils have two months to study it before final approval is given them at the end of February.

Apart from temporary provisions, the bill would be in force from the end of this month.

Where regional planning is adopted as one of its functions, the board would be allowed to draft an area plan. Neither regional authority nor local council would have power to act contrary to this plan.

RIGHT OF APPEAL
It would give the regional board authority to order zoning and subdivision and building regulations within its boundaries.

A member municipality would have the right of appeal to the inspector of municipalities against any order or decision of the regional board. The government could order a public inquiry and with approval of the cabinet its findings would be binding upon the board and member municipalities.

For Forests Control

The government was urged Friday to establish a public commission to control the administration of B.C.'s forest resources.

It is one of 10 recommendations contained in a brief prepared by the B.C. Federation of Labor for the legislature's forestry committee.

CHAIRMAN OPPOSED
Committee chairman Cyril Shefford (S.C.O.) said Friday he is personally "very much opposed" to the commission proposal.

"Such powers should be in the hands of elected representatives," Mr. Shefford insisted.

THROW THEM OUT
"If the people don't like the job their representatives are doing they can throw them out at the next election," he added.

But removing officers of a public commission might be more difficult, Mr. Shefford warned.

OUTSIDE COMMITTEE'S TERMS
The chairman also pointed out that most of the recommendations in the 12-page brief are outside the committee's terms of reference.

One of the recommendations called for setting up a Crown corporation to compete directly with private logging companies.

"POLITICAL ISSUE"
Mr. Shefford termed the recommendation a "political issue" and suggested it will probably arise during the next election.

He expected some of the recommendations will be brought up during debate of forestry estimates.

The brief, presented by federation president E. T. Staley and secretary-treasurer E. P. O'Neal, also proposed that royalty payments by logging

Expert Hired

Province Probes Granduc Disaster

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP)—The Granduc mine in northern British Columbia where 26 miners were killed by an avalanche last month will not be re-opened without the approval of B.C.'s chief mines inspector, it was learned here Friday.

In a telegram received by Ken Smith, Canadian president of the Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers Union (Ind.), B.C. Mines Minister Donald Broderick said the government has hired an avalanche expert to work with Chief Inspector J. W. Peck in investigating the disaster. Mr. Smith said the union was negotiating a first contract at the time of the avalanche and Granduc workers were not protected by group insurance.

He said the union had provided $1,000 to help the victims' families and hoped the government and Granduc company "will at least match this."

Mr. Smith said he earlier had asked Mr. Broderick to order a public inquiry into the disaster.

Damage Minor

MONTREAL (CP)—Three members of one family were killed and seven others injured in a fire which caused only minor damage to a three-story building in Montreal Friday.

Killed were Raymond Lambert, 32, and his sons Pierre, 15 months, and two-year-old Robert.

Quebec Tempted to Go It Alone

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (UPI) — Premier Jean Lesage said here tonight Quebec was tempted to go it alone if English Canada refused to acknowledge its existence.

However, the Quebec premier said there was little likelihood at the present time that Quebec should "succumb to this temptation in the immediate future, which, for all that, does not make it disappear."

Addressing a joint meeting of the Ontario and Quebec Chambers of Commerce, Lesage said not use any terms like independence, separatism or even secession. The term he did use was "autonomous."

The premier said the alternative of "an entirely autonomous growth" if English Canada did not accept French Canada's existence was a wish "latent in the hearts of many Quebecers."

Courtship Still Bright

SHIREBROOK, England (UPI) — Among 88 persons entering to buy old gas-lamps from the local council was a man who wants a "memento" of his courting days under lamp light.

Strike Halts Mill Job

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — Construction of the Prince George Pulp and Paper Company mill ceased here Friday when 35 electricians set up a picket line and 825 workmen refused to cross it.

Spokesmen for Marwell Construction Limited and the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (Ind.)

agreed that the dispute arose over a living-out allowance.

Henry Ayling, Marwell personnel manager, said the allowance is contained in the union agreement but was waived by all unions on the project.

He said that the company will seek an injunction against the picketers and expressed hope that work could be resumed at the site Monday.

Bus Plunge Kills 12

BRASILIA (AP) — Twelve people were killed Friday when a bus overturned on the Brasilia-Belem highway and plunged into a river. A woman and two children were among the 15 passengers who survived.

$9,525 Untouched for 10 Years

The Funds Are Sufficient But Where Are Depositors?

By BOB PETHICK

There are $9,525 (give or take a few bucks) in Victoria's banks that no one seems to care about. At least the depositors of the $9,525 haven't cared for the last 10 years.

The money just sits there since the last transactions were recorded in 1955 and now under the banking act the figures are made public through a supplement of the Canadian Gazette. They are published under the heading of unclaimed balances and for a guy like me—usually one jump ahead of an insufficient funds note—it is unbelievable that anyone can have money in the bank and forget about it.

But this is apparently what happened. And some of the amounts aren't easy to forget. One amount, $2,472.24, is deposited in the name of Otto Altenberger, address unknown. Another eye catcher was deposited in the name of John Hansen, Tofino. The amount: $1,243.73.

There are amounts such as even I would forget.

There is a little matter of 32 cents but the depositor's name and address are unknown.

Another quick look at the depositor's list tells us that the Victoria branch of the United Empire Loyalists is more prosperous than the Lake Hill Tea Canteen.

Loyalists have $31.09 in the bank, the canteen a mere $11.42. And there it sits.

Now nothing would please bank officials more than to have all the depositors of the $9,525 phone, write or come in and renew acquaintances or claim their money.

So think back 10 or so years and go over your old papers. Maybe you have a nest egg that has been forgotten.

On the other hand if you have forgotten it this long you probably don't need it. If this is the case why not instruct your bank to mail the leftover money to Bob Pethick, care of The Daily Colonist, Victoria.

All donations gratefully received.

Royal Visit For Toronto

LONDON (Reuters) — Queen Mother Elizabeth will fly to Toronto in June for a five-day visit to take part in the golden jubilee celebrations of the Toronto Scottish Regiment. It was announced Friday.

The Queen Mother, who is Colonel-in-Chief of the regiment, will present new colors to it June 25.

Russia Launches 60th Satellite

LONDON (Reuters) — Russia has launched the 60th in its series of unmanned Cosmos satellites, the Soviet news agency Tass reported Friday. The craft carried instruments to continue space search.

Cosmos 60 was orbiting the earth once every 89.1 minutes at an angle of nearly 65 degrees to the equator.

The maximum distance from the earth is about 180 miles and the minimum about 125 miles, Tass said.

Scientists are working at producing a 104th element, not obtainable in nature, which takes six hours to form one atom and lives for 0.3 of a second.

Student Leader

Tuition Plan Praised

Newfoundland has shown that free university education can be a reality, Jean Bazin, president of the Canadian Union of Students, said in Victoria.

Here for the national university debating finals, Mr. Bazin called the Newfoundland government's proposed free tuition for first year university students "a step towards equal educational opportunities for all." He was addressing University of Victoria students.

It was significant that one of the smallest provinces with one of the smallest budgets was first to implement such a plan, he said.

STUDENT SURPRISE
"If Newfoundland can provide such funds, surely the wealthier provinces like B.C. and Ontario can do the same."

Mr. Bazin said many students in Canada were surprised by some of the comments of university presidents.

"Some university students are reluctant to accept this positive action."

FINALS TODAY
Mr. Bazin will chair the national university debating finals which take place today. The first debate is in the student union building at noon; the second in the Young Building on the Lansdowne campus at 8 p.m. The winning team will be presented with a trophy by Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes. The public is invited to both debates.

Fences and Guards Can't Stop Cupid

NEW YORK (AP)—The women's quarters at Olympic Games are surrounded by high barbed-wire fences with guards at the gates but an Olympic village is a far-from-secluded community, says Australian swimmer Dawn Fraser.

Miss Fraser, who is in a position to know about Olympic villages, having won gold medals at three Olympics—Melbourne in 1956, Rome in 1960 and Tokyo in 1964—discusses this aspect and others of life as a champion athlete in her autobiographical book, Below the Surface: The Confessions of an Olympic Champion.

THE REASON

The book was written by Miss Fraser in collaboration with Harry Gordon. It has already been published in Australia, where it may have contributed to one of Miss Fraser's many suspensions for displeasing officials—this time for 10 years.

Miss Fraser, now Mrs. Gary Ware, wife of an Australian bookmaker, winds up her book by indicating she will not be bothered too much about the suspension.

SURPRISED BY IT ALL

The swimmer recalls that at first she was surprised "by the amount of enthusiastic, sometimes indiscriminate, necking which went on," but experience taught her "one quite blunt fact: That sex provides a fairly popular diversion in any large community of athletes."

FRANK APPROACH

Miss Fraser writes that the Japanese, Swedes and officials of some other countries "with a frank approach to sex have been known to solve the problem simply by providing girls for male athletes who wanted them."

For Bonspiel

Tenpin Champs Return

First champions of the Vancouver Island Tenpin Bonspiel and back to defend the Colons Trophy they won last year in the inaugural event at Mayfair Lanes.

Among the early entries for the second annual event, scheduled this year for the Easter weekend, April 16-18, is the Trophy Shop team captained by Terry Moody which went through unbeaten last year to win the top prize of $400.

Back with Moody to defend are Barry Stowe and Don Shaw. Bob Munn is the fourth member of the team, replacing Dave Lee.

LOW HANDICAP

Trophy Shop will again have one of the lowest handicaps in the event. Averages range between Stowe's 180 and Munn's 177, giving the club no more than a 66-pin handicap for each team. However, low-handicap teams had more than their share of troubles last year and the same can be anticipated this time around.

Entries for the bonspiel, an outstanding success in its first year, are starting to come in steadily. Once again, a feature is the percentage of distaff bowlers taking part. Of the first 10 teams which have made completed entry, including average, two are ladies' quartets and three have two men and two women.

ALL-GIRL ENTRIES

The two all-female entries promise to make things interesting, and perhaps, embarrassing, for the males.

Flora Kirker heads a team of distaff bowlers entered under Page The Cleaner which at 101 pins per game will be one of the lower-handicap entries.

Mrs. Kirker, whose 175 average is topped by few male bowlers has as support the likes of Mary Cooper (170), Anne Goodman (163) and Helen Young (163).

WAKEHAM 81

DORADO, Puerto Rico—The Caribbean golf tour continues to be a disaster for rookie pro Bill Wakeham of Victoria. He scored an 81 Friday, to put with his first-round score of 75 for a 156 total.

Leader is Al Hasselink of Grossingers, N.Y., with five-under-par 139.

Irene

'Too Pooped to Pop'

In Vancouver, Irene Macdonald, who was Canada's top woman diver for 10 years and competed on six international teams, said Miss Fraser's account was somewhat exaggerated.

"By the time you're finished training you're too pooped to pop," said Miss Macdonald.

"Olympic athletes have parties, but not the majority of the athletes. The necking bit is quite obvious. It definitely occurs."

"Many athletes of age, when they're through their events, really go out and live it up. But only once."

Howe Catching Him Too

Bobby Hull Slipping Behind

Stan Mikita, 24-year-old Chicago centreman, has all but assured himself of a second successive National Hockey League scoring championship, but teammate Bobby Hull, who threatened for more than half the season to rewrite the record books, has been passed by Norm Ullman and is threatened by Gordie Howe.

With 80 points and six games left to play to eight for Ullman, Mikita has a 12-point bulge on the brilliant Detroit centreman, Hull, who has only had six goals and eight assists in the last 21 games he has played, is third with 67 points but Howe, coming fast, is right behind at 64.

More to the point, unless Hull snaps the slump he has been in because of a knee injury, he may lose the goal-scoring lead. He has 38 scoring shots, only four more than Ullman, past 30 for the first time in his career.

Closest race is for the Vedna Trophy, which goes to the goal-keeper who has played the most games for the club allowing the fewest goals.

Detroit-rookie Roger Crozier, who has played all but half a game for his club, leads with a 2.32 goals-against average. Chicago's Glenn Hall, helped in 28 games by Dennis DeJordy, is next at 2.45, and Toronto's Johnny Bower-Terry Sawchuk partnership stands at 2.48.

Rugby Championships To Be Settled Today

First and second division rugby championships will be settled today.

James Bay Athletic Association and Oak Bay Wanderers by no coincidence, make up the finalists in both playoffs.

James Bay will defend the Barnard Cup for the first division title against Oak Bay at Macdonald Park at 2:30. The seconds play for the Times Cup at Windsor Park at the same hour.

Winners of these games play in Vancouver next weekend for B.C. titles. Vancouver Mer-

Good Skiing At Weekend

Excellent skiing is again the prospect this weekend at Green Mountain.

A report last night showed that snow conditions were good, no new snow but 50 inches of old base, and weather bright with temperature of 40 degrees.

The road is clear to the parking lot, three tows will be in operation on the weekend and one snowmobile will be running from the lot to the lodge early morning and late evening only.

Garden Notes

Mix Flowers, Veg!

By M. V. CHESTNUT, FRHS

A few weeks ago I suggested in this column that a few rows in the vegetable plot should be reserved for the growing of flowers from seed to supply cut blooms for the vases and bowls in the house, for in this way you can cut annual flowers without affecting the appearance of the ornamental beds out front. Today I have an equally screwball suggestion—that of growing certain vegetables in your ornamental flower beds!

One plant that comes to mind immediately is chicory, a versatile vegetable of many uses. At our house, it is our practice to add a pinch of the dried and powdered root to our coffee percolator, for a touch of it gives the coffee a certain richness and something of the "bistro" flavor found in French coffee. A selected form of the same plant—the Wilcof chicory—is forced in a dark basement or warm, dark shed to produce blanching shoots or "chicons" for winter salads.

Chicory is a singularly ornamental plant, though, and well worth a position in the beds of perennial flowers.

My plants stand about 4½ feet tall, making compact clumps which need no staking, and they cover themselves in July with fine large flowers in the brightest clear blue shade.

Although the individual flowers don't last longer than two or three days, they open in rapid succession over a period of nearly three months, providing a cool note of color at a time when there are not very many blue flowers open in the perennial border. It is an easy plant to grow from seed, preferring a position in full sun and a light, rather sandy soil.

Four or five years ago I found a self-sown plant of asparagus coming up among our perennial flowers, probably from a seed voided by a bird. I let it grow, intending to transplant it to the vegetable plot eventually, but the airy, ferny foliage looked so attractive in the back row of flowers, it was allowed to remain. Since that time, the root has been divided to give us three asparagus plants among the flowers, not only as a foil for the colored blooms, but to supply asparagus "ferns" for my wife's bouquets and floral arrangements.

One vegetable almost unknown here but popular in France is orach, botanically Atriplex hortensis. Of its several forms, the Red Mountain orach is by far the most ornamental, and apart from its use as a salad herb and for boiling like spinach, it is a striking plant for the back of the flower border. Standing five feet tall, it has blood-red arrow-shaped leaves, flowers and seed tassels and violet-colored stems. Sprays of orach associate particularly well with Michaelmas daisies in flower arrangements, and the seed pods can be dried for winter use.

Orach is an annual, but it seeds itself freely—perhaps too freely—and once established in the perennial border, plenty of self-sown seedlings will spring up to renew the display. In nature, orach is a seaside plant, and I find it responds gratefully to an occasional pinch of table salt in its winter. Seeds are not easy to come by but are listed in several English catalogues and by the George W. Park Seed Co. of Greenwood, South Carolina.

ART BUCHWALD Takes Plea Literally

Keep Debauchery at Home

WASHINGTON—Sen. J. William Fulbright has made a patriotic plea to all Americans. Last week he said, "It does seem to me that the American people could bring themselves to travel within the United States and spare the sophisticated debauchery and artistic pocket-picking of Paris, at least for a year or so."

"Is the patriotism and enlightened self-interest of our people so superficial, they cannot, just this year, go to Las Vegas instead of Monte Carlo, or New Orleans instead of Paris, or Colorado instead of Switzerland, and Florida and California rather than Cairo?" "They will find they can do it for half the price without insults or shakedowns, and perform a real service to this country."

As soon as I read the article, I said to my wife, "Well, it looks like we're going to have to find our sophisticated debauchery in the United States this year."

"What are you talking about?" "Sen. Fulbright says if we have any patriotism at all we should do without in America, instead of abroad." "I wasn't planning on debauching at home or abroad," she said humbly. "Neither was I, but he wants us all to go to Las Vegas and New Orleans." "What for?" "So we won't get our pockets picked by the French." "I never got my pocket picked in France."

"I thought we were staying home this summer." "There's no debauchery to be found in Washington." "I wish you would stop talking about debauchery." "If a United States senator says it's un-American to go to Paris, then I say we've got to make our own debauchery." "What else are we supposed to do?" "Instead of going to Switzerland, he wants us to go to Colorado, and instead of Cairo we're supposed to go to Florida and California. It's half the price and we won't be insulted or shaken down." "I don't want to go to Florida or California or Cairo in the summertime."

"That's what I thought. You are selfish. All you want to do is stay at home. I've got a good mind to go out and seek some debauchery on my own." "I don't see how we can help by debauching." "Debauchery is a big industry in Paris. That's where all the dollars are going. If we de-bauch here, the French won't get their hands on our money." "Do you think most people go to Paris to be debauched?" "I can't say if they do or they don't. But we all know that the French are noted for debauching, and it can't help but rub off on the tourists." "When do we leave?" she wanted to know. "That's more like it. I knew you'd see it. Sen. Fulbright's way. I'll call up the airlines and ask if they have a family plan for debauchery in New Orleans."

The Little World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

Geraldine Star of Year

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—Geraldine Chaplin, complete with Charlie's smile, dimples, and mobile face, is obviously this year's new big star, what with Dr. Zhivago and Anne of A Thousand Days.

"I am happy that I am making it on my own, in spite of my father's name," she writes from Spain. "When I was engaged to dance in Cinderella last year, they hired me because of my father without even seeing me dance. The publicity that resulted was out of all proportion. Of course my father was angry and he was right."

Geraldine is now aware that Metro should not use her in their most important picture of the year, because she happens to be related to Chaplin. Not from Geraldine, I learn that her special boy friend is a young Spaniard, Manuel Velasco, a cameraman she met when she made her first film, By a Beautiful Summer Morning with Jean-Paul Belmondo. Manuel drove her to Madrid for her current film in his small car. No talk of marriage. "He's a very good friend."

Carlo Ponti's first wife, Countess Giuliana Finetti, couldn't be more accommodating. From Italy there is a report that she is trying to become a French citizen, so that her French divorce from Carlo will be recognized in Italy. . . . and Giuliana Lorenza has discovered that photographers in France can be just as peaky as the paparazzi of Italy. They used all sorts of disguises on the Lady L set and as a result, when it was closed to them, Sophia heard herself accused on the French radio as discriminating against the photographers of France! . . . They are very touchy in France, as you may know. I can still hear the Frenchman with a camera who was trying unsuccessfully to break into an Elizabeth Taylor tea party in Paris, hissing through the keyhole, "This is total war!"

Jean Arthur, who retired to Carmel in northern California a decade ago, has been in town doing some television. What I find most interesting about Jean today is that the woman who used to behave like a frightened gazelle whenever she saw a reporter or columnist, is now actually giving press conferences. Being away from the limelight for a spell can sometimes make you appreciate publicity.

Julie Andrews is praying that the presence of her husband at the New York premiere of The Sound of Music, and the fact that Tony (Walton) will be here with her for the Oscar awards, will still the stories that erupt every time they are apart. Tony has discotheque business in New York. Julie is now rehearsing hard for her NBC-TV taping.

Peter Finch of The Pumpkin Eater and one other correspondent paid the costs in the Shirley Bassey divorce suit. But the romance with Peter and Shirley seems to be over. He'll be flying to New York to star in The Bengali. . . . Another Peter's picture—Peter O'Toole, this time and we mean Lord Jim, will be shown in 56 countries. It will be seen almost everywhere except Cambodia, where it was filmed. While Prince Sihanouk did not protest the financial benefits that accrued from the making of the picture in his country, he refuses to allow "western made" films to be shown there.

Useless Knowledge Proves Useful

By LYNN POOLE

The Johns Hopkins University

Countless unknown scientists are working in thousands of research laboratories, investigating facts about our universe which have no meaning and absolutely no practical use. Once in a while we read about some of their discoveries which seem so inconsequential as wonder why they do it.

They do it because they have an insatiable curiosity about facts. They are probing deep into the mysteries of science and carrying on basic, fundamental research—research which uncovers a new fact and adds to scientific knowledge.

In 1540 a scientist by the name of Valerius Cordus was curious about all sorts of liquids. He discovered a volatile liquid which made him dizzy each time he worked with it. Other men were curious about this same liquid.

In 1818 Michael Faraday worked with this same liquid. He satisfied his basic curiosity about it, wrote about his experiments and forgot it.

In 1846 a young American did something about it. On Oct. 16, 1846, youthful Dr. William T. G. Morton walked into the operating room at Massachusetts General Hospital, put a mask over the face of a patient, dropped some liquid on the mask and watched as the patient fell asleep. A surgeon, John Collins Warren, picked up a scalpel, removed a tumor from the patient's neck.

The liquid was ether and the operation was the first painless surgical operation ever performed!

Sir William Crookes, English scientist was curious about many things and put together a glass tube in which he could produce a yellow-green light.

A German scientist, William Roentgen wanted to know more about this so he delved into the growing scientific literature, probed deeper into the eerie light and in 1895 discovered x-ray, which in turn gave medical science a tool with which to explore the interior of a human body.

At the same time Henri Becquerel, French scientist, worked in a basement with many ores which gave off rays. He covered them all with a photographic-negative paper and found that only one ore activated the paper. It was uranium.

Becquerel had satisfied his curiosity. But a young Polish girl who had become a French citizen, was even more curious. The girl, Marie Curie went further—she discovered radium.

At Johns Hopkins University, late in the 19th century, a young chemist Ira Remsen was interested in molecular structures. His research led him into many areas, one of which produced a white powder. He wasn't interested in the powder because he had found his answer to this particular molecular structure.

Nevertheless, another scientist was interested in the powder. We know it as saccharin.

Remsen continued his studies of molecular structures and put a bottle of liquid on his shelf, little dreaming that 30 years later this liquid would save his life. The liquid was phenolphthalein, a dye later injected into Dr. Remsen to study a serious kidney ailment. This liquid is still used today by doctors in studying damage to the kidney.

Closer to our own time a 24-year-old clerk in a Swiss patent office was curious about the universe and during lunch hours scribbled mathematical results of his thinking on bits of paper.

In 1905 young Albert Einstein startled the scientific world with publication of his theory of relativity which changed the course of modern science, ushered in the true atomic age.

Someone, somewhere, right now may be exploring a fact which may be the vital factor in an ultimate cure for cancer, a trip to Mars or a final understanding of how life on this earth was created.

In School Play Portrayal

Abe's Poverty Neglected

By BERT BINNY

Competition ended Friday in the Silver Jubilee Schools Drama Festival after a week-long program of 30 plays, 29 of them in competition. Individual award winners will be announced tonight at the honor performance at Oak Bay Junior Secondary School, consisting of repeat performances of Willow Elementary School's production of Cinderella, directed by Miss Virginia Lefevre; Central Junior Secondary School's The Romance of the Willow Pattern, directed by Mr. Byron H. Barker, and Victoria Senior Secondary School's Fools' Errand, directed by Mr. H. C. Farr.

Mr. Hare emphasized that the choice of honor plays was by no means easy and he gave high commendation to the following: At the Elementary level: Alice's Adventures in Wonderland.

land by Sir James Douglas School and the same play as presented by Oaklands.

At the Junior Secondary level: The Bow With a Cart by St. Ann's Academy, Swinehead by Norfolk House School and Capsule of Love by Glenlyon Preparatory School.

At the Senior Secondary level: Still Stands the House by Belmont, Ile by St. Louis College and One Marries the Property by Oak Bay.

GOOD GRASP

Friday afternoon's program was provided by casts all from the junior secondary level and opened with The Boy Abe by the host school, Oak Bay Junior Secondary.

The adjudicator commended the players for good grasp of their characters and for fine interplay. He found the tempo, however, too even, a misfortune which has visited quite a number of the 1965 productions.

The extreme poverty of the pioneer community in which Abe (Lincoln) was raised was not, Mr. Hare felt, sufficiently emphasized but he felt that Abe himself (Clive Mimmagh) provided a sensitive performance.

It is worthy of note that the participants in this play were not seasoned hands; on the contrary, they were all new to the stage. They did a good job.

Bernard Desrube, playing Dicky Bach Owl, had the best grasp of what the next item, Birds of a Feather, was all about.

This play was presented by St. Michael's School. The adjudicator pointed out that more light was needed; motivated light for which perfectly legitimate opportunity existed.

Once again, the tempo was levelled out so that there were no build-ups in the more exciting scenes.

CHARMING PIECE

"A very charming piece," was Mr. Hare's description of the fantasy, Swinehead, presented by Norfolk House School.

But there was more to it than this. Swinehead had only one speaking part, that of Old Luke the Dustman, excellently discharged by Irene Boese who, incidentally, made her entrance from the back of the audience.

Except for a brief spell of singing by the Princess (Madeleine Groos), everything else was portrayed in mime and excellently done it was.

GOOD STYLE

The sketches, suspended on a screen upstage to indicate varying scenes, were not only well-drawn and colored but they were also in good style.

There was lots of clever business very attractively executed as, for instance, in the case of the three ladies-in-waiting who established contrasts without uttering a syllable.

BRITISH COMEDY

The final program Friday evening opened with The Witching Hour, produced by Victoria Secondary School.

"This," noted the adjudicator, "was a real British comedy." This British reality, however, turned out to be something of a trap. For perfectly valid reasons an attempt had to be made to utilize a Canadian rather than a British idiom.

"The cast had lots of drive and verve," said Mr. Hare, "but in a situation that was foreign to them." Glenlyon School's A Capsule of Love followed.

It was described by Mr. Hare as "a clever spoof on James Bond" with Andrew Ross-Nutt as Sonya peering as "the best Russian spy with a French accent that I have ever encountered."

SKILLFUL TEAMWORK

The final play of the evening was Fools' Errand produced by Victoria Secondary School.

This was an immensely powerful performance and was singled out by the adjudicator as showing "the most rewarding and skillful use of staging and teamwork."

Tom McKeachie was praised for his performance as Hodge. "Not only was his performance strong," said Mr. Hare, "but he drew others along with him."

The adjudicator thought that Fools' Errand opened a bit too vigorously inasmuch as vigor usurped the place of clarity. It was not long, however, before the play settled down and became perfectly lucid.

Protest Sent To China

MOSCOW (CP) — The Soviet Union protested to China Friday that Chinese students attacked Soviet police with sticks, iron rods and stones in a demonstration at the U.S. Embassy March 4.

A note to the Chinese embassy said the students had prepared their ammunition in advance, Tass news agency reported. It added that more than 30 police and army servicemen were injured, four seriously.

RCAF Group Election

Service Stolen

Youths Sentenced For Phone Call

GRAND FORKS (CP) — Two Grand Forks youths have been convicted of theft of telephone service.

The unusual charge was laid by RCMP in connection with a $22 long-distance call placed from Grand Forks to New Westminster, and charged to the wrong number.

One youth, a 17-year-old was sentenced in magistrate's court to 15 months' definite and nine months' indeterminate at Oakla la young offenders' unit. The other, 16, was sentenced to Brannan Lake School.

CALLS CHECKED

A spokesman for B.C. Telephone Company Ltd. said the company has a routine for checking long-distance calls denied by the subscriber. "and we can usually track them down."

But he said criminal charges are not often laid, although the Criminal Code provides for them.

Seiner Searchers Find Jug and Fishing Floats

VANCOUVER (CP) — Search and rescue units discovered only debris Friday in their search for the missing 63-foot seiner Combat, lost since Wednesday with seven men aboard.

The floatam could not be immediately identified. A helicopter discovered two fishing floats and a white, plastic jug floating in the water near Aristazabal Island, just off the mainland coast.

An RCAF Albatross search plane discovered a board with black and white trimmings floating in the Hecate Strait area, 20 miles northeast of Jedway. Five aircraft and six boats continued the search.

An Ovation for Antigone

By IAN ARROL.
The Greek chorus in the play Antigone at Brentwood College

Friday night was a delicious young man wearing a tuxedo and smoking a cigarette.

He was Hamish Thoms, one of a cast of 12. He introduced the Jean Anouilh adaptation of the 20th century version of Sophocles' 2,400-year-old tragedy.

NAZI OCCUPATION
The setting was Paris under the Nazi occupation of 1943, where the people, like the characters of the Greek play, were torn between idealism and cynicism.

A modern King Creon spoke for the practical politician, modern Antigone for the ideals of humanity.

King Creon, played by Barry Greenhalgh, 18, of Brentwood College, spoke for the practical approach to life—compromise.

EVEN IF DEATH
Antigone, played by Barbara Becher, 17, of Strathcona Lodge girls' school, spoke for the ideals of the spirit, even if they mean death of the body.

Although Antigone died and Creon lived, Antigone was triumphant for the 530 in the audience. He proved man must live by his dreams or suffer the nightmare of his existence.

That the message came across and received the ovation it did from the standing-room audience was a tribute to director Gil Bunch of Brentwood College.

Schoolboy reticence showed itself only when Antigone's lover Haemon, played by Rory Morahan, was required to speak soft words of love.

AGAINST FATHER
But when Rory had his opportunity to rant and rave against his father, Creon, he attained the potentialities of the role.

Comic relief was the field for First Guard John Feigl; who was a successful caricature of the barracks type.

Antigone will be seen at the Brentwood College gym at 8 p.m. today.

Southern California

B.C. Prospectors Eye Tourist Lode

The mother lode of Vancouver Island tourism—Southern California—will be mined next month by 15 tourist-dollar prospectors from Victoria.

The B.C. Ferry Authority-sponsored junket will unfold word of Vancouver Island's tourist attractions before members of 82 Los Angeles area service clubs between April 6 and April 14.

PAY OWN EXPENSES

Each of the volunteer speakers on the tour list is paying his own expenses, said organizer R. B. Worley, assistant general manager and traffic manager for the B.C. Ferry Authority.

Each will present a colored photographic slide program extolling Island tourist attractions at a number of meetings.

Los Angeles and environs were chosen because "statistics show this is the area which the Island draws the greatest number of tourists — and also the biggest spenders," said Mr. Worley.

Special speakers are Highways Minister Gagliardi and Lands Minister Williston.

R. J. Innes, Edward Norman, Ald. C. I. Edgell, Victor Downard, E. E. Chamberlain, Michael Heppel, Kenneth Woodward, Frank Ney (Nanaimo), Ira Hill, Walter Dodsworth, Louis Lindholm, A. E. Walters, F. A. Anthony and Albert Sutton also will deliver talks.

Playhouse Star for Week

Scots Baritone to Fly From U.K. for Concerts

By IAN ARROL.

Baritone John Dunbar will be flown from Britain for a week of concerts in McPherson Playhouse June 7 to 12.

Arrangements made by phone and cable were completed with the former Victorian singer Friday afternoon by Tony Elise.

and Tony Nicholson, the sponsor.

"The evening will have a Scottish theme and now that we have the star, we are working on the rest of the show," said Mr. Elise.

CITY FAVORITE

Mr. Dunbar was one of the city's favorite entertainers and personalities for more than a decade until a farewell concert in Victoria High School in October, 1962.

Since then, the native Scotsman has appeared regularly in British revues and concerts and on BBC radio and TV. He has also recorded a number of songs.

ENTHUSIASTIC

"He was very enthusiastic about coming here for the week," said Mr. Elise.

In addition to solo concerts, choral society work, radio and TV in Victoria, Mr. Dunbar went to Vancouver once every week as a star of the CBC network show Leicester Square in Broadway.

Elizabeth Taylor Rushes To Her Father's Bedside

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Elizabeth Taylor, whose life has been clouded by an almost incredible series of personal tragedies, flew home Friday to be with her critically ill father. "I can only pray," she said.

Sombre and obviously distressed, Miss Taylor stepped from an airliner at International Airport in mid-afternoon on a flight from Dublin, Ireland. She was rushed to Cedars of Lebanon Hospital where she hurried to the room of her father, Francis Taylor.

Newsmen at the hospital followed as she went to an elevator. The brunette beauty, speaking in a whisper, said "What comment can I make. I can only pray."

Taylor, 35, an art dealer, suffered a cerebral hemorrhage Thursday at his Bel Air home.

Drenched pilot Brune (hand raised) tells story while rescuers tie plane to dock

Pilot Escapes Injury

Plane Crashes in Sea
Second Time in Year

By AL ARNASON

A Sidney-based float plane crashed into the salt-chuck Friday afternoon for the second time in less than a year without injuring occupants—and may eventually fly again.

Former RCAF pilot L. D. Brune, of Bowser, alone in the two-seater Luscombe aircraft, was making a landing approach at Patricia Bay Airport shortly before 4 p.m. when the crash occurred in Patricia Bay. He was rescued unhurt.

The same plane, owned by Victoria Flying Services Ltd., crashed last April 1 in Saanich Inlet. Then as now, the plane was rented by its pilot, said a spokesman for the firm Friday.

Manager Gordon Jeune said the fully-insured $7,000 aircraft may be "salvageable" although it lies submerged and upside down at the jetty of the RCN's VU33 Auxiliary Squadron in Patricia Bay.

In the 1964 crash Victoria pilot Morris Kersey and David Mill of Campbell River were rescued unhurt by units of the same force that picked up Brune, the VU33 Auxiliary Squadron.

'I Stood on the Pontoon'

In a brief statement to the Colonist Friday Mr. Brune said, "I stood on the pontoon for nearly 15 minutes until I was picked up. It was low tide and it kept at least one man from launching his boat, although he saw me come down."

The pilot was rescued by crewmen on an unnamed 18-foot personnel and equipment carrier boat attached to the RCN underwater weapons testing range at Patricia Bay.

The boat towed the sunken aircraft to a government jetty where it is expected to be raised and righted today.

An eyewitness to the crash was Mrs. Norreen McCluskey, 10199 West Saanich Road, a waitress at the Coffee Flight Restaurant at the Patricia Bay Airport terminal.

"I was standing in our driveway waiting for my husband to drive me to work when I heard the plane. The engine seemed to be making a funny noise, at least that's what it sounded like."

"It was kind of hard to see because it was quite a long way out and the sun was shining on the water."

Plane Hit the Water

"The plane hit the water sort of on its side and front end. It was so far away and the sun was so bright I couldn't see very well, but a man on the beach had a sort of spiggle. He said he could see a man standing on a log."

The log was presumably the pontoon mentioned by the pilot later.

Mrs. McCluskey said she called authorities from her home.

The plane was also observed by B.C. Telephone Co. linemen Bill Sowler, Latoria Road and Emil Stajduhar, 4300 Savoy.

"We were working on a pole when we heard a bang and looked up. I saw what looked like a cross sinking into the water. It was just a silhouette against the sun," said Mr. Stajduhar.

"We could see a kind of smoke or haze around the plane. It was sitting tail up. The smoke may have been caused when the engine hit the water," he added.

The linemen also notified RCN and RCMP authorities.

Naturalist Field Trip

The younger section of the Junior branch of the Victoria Natural History Society will meet for a field trip to Christmas Hill, Monterey parking lot, 1:30 p.m. today.

Says Spokesman

Servants
Donate Heavily

A spokesman for B.C. government employees in Victoria has denied a charge by retiring United Appeal campaign chairman D. J. Lawson that provincial civil servants do not donate enough to the fund.

"Mr. Lawson's statement was most uncharitable," said the employees' official.

UP 50 PER CENT

He pointed out "in the first year of the provincial government voluntary payroll deduction plan, employees contributed a 50 per cent increase over the average of the previous three years."

He said Community Chest also collects large sums at the doors of the homes of these same provincial government employees.

Mr. Lawson had also stated school teachers do not give enough to the campaign.

Thriving

Tourist dollars are a dime that keeps Victoria from foundering in a sea of economic depression, members of the Victoria Visitors' Bureau were told Friday at its second annual meeting.

About 100 businessmen and bureau members were told by R. B. Worley, assistant general manager of the B.C. Ferry Authority, that "in 1963 retail sales in Victoria amounted to more than $133,000,000, and it is estimated that $80,000,000 was spent by tourists in the area."

IN EVERY SENSE

"The tourist gives us our prosperity. Without him we would be in a depression in every sense of the word," he said.

A report by assistant-commissioner M. E. Heppel in the bureau's annual report showed an increase in every phase of tourist traffic in 1964 over the year before.

Elected directors under a revised scheme of mixed two-year and one-year terms were:

S. M. Booker, V. A. Downard, Pat Fremont, Sam Lane, Alan Leith, Alan Maclean, S. G. Mooney, L. C. Parkinson, R. B. Worley—all for two-year terms.

One-year terms will be served by W. F. Armon, J. C. Hadcock, G. N. North, K. B. Olson, Andy Stephen, A. M. Thorne, A. W. Toome, R. R. Wilde and Robert Wright.

Baha'i Meeting

The Baha'is will hold a public meeting at the Baha'i Centre, 1005 View Street, at 8 p.m. Monday.

Ten Calls Answered

Beautiful Day Brings Firemen's Nightmare

Crackling dry brush and grass, a hot sun and light wind combined to create a nightmare out of a beautiful day for local fire departments.

City Plans
Tennis
For Juniors

A junior tennis program in Victoria's parks will be launched this summer and between 500 and 1,000 youngsters are expected to participate.

Sponsored by the city, the program will be directed by Gordon Hartley, athletic director and English teacher at Victoria High School.

The seven-week program starts June 28 and will offer two one-hour lessons each week with the final week devoted to tournament play.

The program, if successful, will eventually be extended to include other municipalities.

"Other sports have long been promoted in Victoria," Mr. Hartley explained, "but tennis has always been an orphan."

Boys and girls nine years and older are eligible. Fee is $1, with registration at City Hall.

Body Found

A man's partly decomposed body was found Thursday afternoon floating off Pacific Pier, driving Wharf, city police said Friday.

They said the body was that of William Francis MacDonald, a 33-year-old city man who had recently undergone treatment at the DVA Hospital.

Coming in July

Ten British university students will visit Victoria in July.

The students, participating in the Experiment in International Living, will spend a month in private homes.

Victoria students may have the opportunity to go to Spain on the same plan.

Ten alarms were turned in between 10:08 a.m. and 4:56 p.m., keeping Greater Victoria and rural fire departments on the run.

Central Saanich was hardest hit when a barn-storage building took fire at 1401 Stelly's Cross Road while the department was already dousing a grassfire at 1425 Benvenuto.

All available equipment of the Central Saanich volunteer fire department was called in and a truck was called from the Sidney volunteer fire department.

The blaze at the home of Harry Baede started when he was burning brush.

The fire got out of hand in spite of Mr. Baede's efforts with the garden hose. It spread to the nearby building. Mr. Baede got his car out of the building but a $1,500 camper was reduced to a blob of metal.

Part of the building was undamaged except for water. There was no immediate estimate of the loss.

Due to dry conditions in Central Saanich fire chief Don Facey has asked anyone wishing to do any burning to get a permit from the fire department.

Although grass and brush are tinder-dry B.C. Forest Service officials are not concerned about the situation in the woods.

LOTS OF SNOW

A forest service spokesman said the forests were still packing plenty of moisture and there was lots of snow left on the mountains.

In the busy Saanich alarm room the log book read like this:

10:07 a.m., bushfire, 635 McKenzie; 12:15 p.m., brushfire, 1850 Island Highway, Colwood; 12:28 p.m., grassfire, 1425 Benvenuto, Central Saanich; 1:54, brushfire, 2639 Sooke Road, Langford; 2 p.m., grassfire, Wilkinson and Loehalm, Saanich; 2:08, building fire, 1401 Stelly's Cross Road, Central Saanich; 2:43, grassfire, 1435 Courtland, Saanich; 3:18, grass and brushfire at the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory gates on West Saanich Road, Saanich; 4:01, grassfire at Keating Cross Road and Veynes Road, Central Saanich.

And for a change of pace, Colwood volunteer fire department was called out to a car fire at Colwood Corner at 4:56 p.m.

Students
Hold
Jones Day

Monday is Jones day at the University of Victoria.

That's the day suspended government purchasing chairman George E. F. Jones speaks at 12:30 p.m. in the Paul Building.

His subject will be "The Law and Mr. Jones." Admission is free.

A student spokesman said the meeting will be moved to a larger room if warranted by attendance.

Teacher Says:

Blackface Minstrel
Causes Race Hatred

Sharp criticism of the Solarium Junior League's forthcoming minstrel show has been voiced by a Saanich school teacher.

"There is no doubt the sponsor group and the performers are well-intentioned and contribute by their efforts to a good cause," said Patrick Thomas, 1422 Wendle. "One hesitates to criticize any aspects of such efforts."

But presenting a program in "blackface" can be justifiably criticized, said Mr. Thomas.

PROBABLY THE LAST

A spokesman for the Junior League said this would probably be the last year of the annual event. She said the league had conferred with the Council of Churches, which felt it was all right to go ahead.

"They agreed it was rather late to call it off now," the spokesman said.

Mr. Thomas said the attitudes that produced the white man's minstrel show were basically the same attitudes that lie in the root of anti-Negro racism today.

"If Negroes today were no more a persecuted minority than the Scots, perhaps little harm might be done. But men and women are being brutalized, set upon by dogs, jailed and murdered in our neighboring country, and why? Because they say that Negroes are not the old caricature but are human beings with the same variety, potential and rights as the rest of us."

Assistant
Given Nod

Assistant fire chief James Allan will be appointed deputy Victoria chief on March 31 if city council approves.

A recommendation from the fire wardens' committee also includes the appointment of Allan as fire chief on Oct. 31.

The appointment this month would replace acting deputy chief William Wiggs who reaches retirement age in three weeks.

Parks Planners Need Millions

By A. H. MURPHY

A mixed bag of legislators and municipal officials saw a couple of million dollars worth of real estate Friday and wished they had a lot more than $34,000 to spend on its development.

In fact, said Ald. Millard Mooney, chairman of the Victoria-Saanich Beaches and Parks Committee, millions could be spent on the development of Gorge Park, Mount Douglas and the Elk-Beaver Lake park complex alone.

The potentialities of the district parks as playgrounds for thousands of citizens were seen to be almost limitless.

"Unfortunately, it all resolves itself to a matter of money," said Saanich Coun. Ed Lum.

Saanich and Victoria representatives discussed the possibility of leasing the city-owned Gorge Park to Saanich for development.

Saanich has already spent considerable money on Gorge Park; is anxious to develop it further and would take a long-term lease from the city for a nominal fee and, in return, provide the city with a blueprint for exploitation of the park's natural resources.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, part of the 12-man tour of the parks, felt that Gorge Park had been neglected for years. He was in favor of a deal with Saanich if it would result in improvements.

A $34,000 budget was adopted in principle at a formal meeting of the committee which followed the tour. It was conditionally approved pending further investigation of what can be done to rehabilitate the Gorge area.

Among improvements suggested during a survey of Gorge Park was a reconstructed walkway around the shore and under the Gorge bridge which would be rebuilt.

The shoreline could be dredged, Ald. Edgelow pointed out, and the recovered silt used to fill in the shoreline and make space for bathhouses and car park.

There was a need for more tables and work should be done on the grounds.

The view area from the top setting tanks are located, has been partly filled by Saanich during the winter.

The vast cement tanks which once were used to process Victoria's drinking water are being filled with sand and hog-fuel and covered with a thick layer of landfill.

City parks superintendent Bart Bate said that within two years four acres will have been recovered for use as a picnic site.

Another project which was discussed was the improvement of the road on the west side of Beaver and Elk lakes.

A fish restocking program for the joined lakes was discussed. If it was possible to clean out the catfish, they might be converted into a fishing mecca for anglers.

Potentially one of the greatest entertainment areas in the district, the Elk-Beaver Lake park complex, received considerable attention.

Ex-City Pair Here for Show

The McKilligans come home today, as featured skaters in Victoria Ice Capers.

Betty Ann and John McKilligan were members of Victoria Figure Skating Club before moving to North Vancouver.

They are now Canadian junior pairs champions, and come back to Victoria to skate in the ice show today.

Former Ice Capades member John Bate, a Vancouver professional skater, will also be featured in the show.

Junior members of the figure skating club, from both Victoria and Esquimalt divisions, will don colorful costumes to bring the flavor of many lands to Ice Capers.

There will be two performances today in Memorial Arena, at 2:30 and 8 p.m.

What will the well dressed Canadian wear in the year 2065? Some Canadian designers believe fashions like the above may be in vogue a hundred years from now. A dozen of the 21st century costumes, along with some contemporary travel clothes, are to be shown across western Canada this month. Between stopovers in Winnipeg, Edmonton and Vancouver, fashion shows of the designs of the future are being staged aboard Canadian National Railways' Panorama. The 2065 hostess, seated, appears in a box-pleated, bordered tunic, a concept which won an award for designer Diane Sage of Vancouver. The antenna-equipped outfit is a "maternity sport suit" of the future.—(CN Photo)

Eight New Members For Britannia LA

The Ladies Auxiliary to Britannia Branch, No. 7, Royal Canadian Legion, was held recently in the Auditorium with Mrs. L. Rabey in the chair. Eight new members, Mrs. M. Mabey, Mrs. J. Mabey, Mrs. N. K. Talbot, Mrs. S. Noctor, Mrs. M. Whitaker, Mrs. A. Page, Mrs. E. Stevens and Mrs. E. M. Mackie were initiated. The pot luck supper and mock auction reported joint proceeds of $77. Official delegates to Provincial Convention are Mrs. Rabey, Mrs. F. Smith and standard bearer Mrs. N. Herd. Fraternal delegates wishing to attend the convention are requested to give their names to the secretary, Mrs. L. Plaxton, EV 5-1234, as early as possible.

There will be a St. Patrick's Tea in the Auditorium on Wednesday, March 17, from 2 to 4 p.m. Mrs. S. Edwards is convener.

Initiations of three-ply wool will be accepted for a shut-in member to make an Afghan. Members willing to serve soft drinks and coffee on either Monday evenings or Friday evenings please phone Mrs. D. Turnbull, GR 9-7109.

Women Hold Day of Prayer

The Women's World Day of Prayer service was held at St. Dunstan's Anglican Church. Leaders were Mrs. S. C. Evans and Mrs. W. Skra from Gordon Head United Church and Mrs. F. Aubel and Mrs. G. Young from St. Dunstan's. Mrs. S. C. Evans gave the message. The Voices (amid the congregation) were Mrs. H. Watkins, Mrs. N. Powell and Mrs. A. Whitaker. Tea was served in the church hall.

Regular meeting of St. Dunstan's Women's Auxiliary was held March 9 at the home of Mrs. E. L. Aubel. Mrs. R. Heywood and Mrs. A. Whitaker reported on the W. A. Diocesan annual meeting at the cathedral. Mrs. J. M. MacKay told of plans for a Little Helpers party April 30.

Next meeting of the auxiliary will be held April 13 at the home of Mrs. C. A. Smith, Oakland Avenue.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: My husband is the type who must have the last word—no matter what it costs him. Well it is now costing him 15 days in jail.

It all started with a speeding ticket. My husband said he was not speeding—that the cop was laying for him. He refused to pay the ticket and went to court to plead not guilty. When the judge reminded my husband that he had been nabbed for speeding twice in the past two years he got mad and called the judge a name. The judge gave him 15 days.

So now what am I to tell our six-year-old son? How will he feel if he knows his father is in jail? Will it scar him for life? I need answers and I need them now.—UNDONE.

Dear Un: Do yourself up and tell your son the truth. Explain that people who drive cars must follow the rules or pay the penalty—which in this case was a jail sentence.

Make it clear that Daddy did not rob a bank or kill anyone but that he did break a law—and laws must be obeyed if we are to have a world safe for everybody.

Dear Ann Landers: Our son, who will soon be six, plays with some little boys in the neighborhood who are older than he is. Some of the words he has picked up are not very nice, in fact they are filthy. We are sure he doesn't know what the words mean because he says these words in the presence of guests. Naturally, it is very embarrassing to the guests as well as to us.

It is difficult to conceal shock when he comes up with gutter words. In the presence of the minister, for instance. My husband and I don't know how to deal with the problem and we are enlisting your help.—PARENTS OF LITTLE BOY BLUE.

Dear Parents: You son will continue to use gutter words so long as they have shock value. When children use dirty words whether guests are present or not—parents should register no shock or horror. Simply say, "We don't talk like that in our family," and change the subject. If the child persists he should be sent to his room.

By the time they are 13 most kids have heard all the words, or read them on bathroom walls, and nobody ever died from words.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a faithful reader of your column and I'm pleased that you have the courage to tackle certain problems which most people would be inclined to duck. I refer specifically to the careless female who ignores the basics of hygiene, such as soap and water, tooth paste, comb and deodorants.

Your suggestion that the most gentle and understanding woman in the office speak to her is unrealistic, however. In our own office, the most gentle and understanding woman told me "I'd rather die." So I accepted the responsibility because I felt a young girl had to be told.

The poor thing heard me out, then broke down and wept. She finally sobbed, "But nobody ever told me."

For three days she avoided me but I noticed that her appearance improved 100%. Others noticed it too, but I never let on that we had had a chat.

Several days later I received two dozen roses. The card read, "Thank you—flatter than words can express." It was unsigned but I know who had sent the bouquet.—SACRIFICIAL LAMB.

Dear Lamb: A low bow for doing what needed to be done, although it was a difficult and unpleasant chore.

Women in Politics Better Thinkers

NORTH VANCOUVER (CP)—Women in politics are successful because they are better thinkers than their male counterparts, says Phyllis Simpson, chairman of the North Vancouver school board.

"They do not allow their minds to become cluttered with non-essentials. They have definite views and they never fear to express them."

Mrs. Simpson, mother of two

Married 50 Years

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Raper, 3980 Cedar Hill Road, received well wishes from 200 guests on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary last Sunday.

Mr. A. O. Johns who is holidaying in Honolulu had sent orchids for them to wear for this occasion. Telegrams were also received from relatives in England.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. George Knudson, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Haskin and Miss Sue Haskin, all of Paulsboro, Wash., Mr. and Mrs. Ed Thomson of Seattle, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Mallet of Vancouver and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Raper and family of Errington.

sons, playwright, social worker and Cub leader, was elected head of the school board in January at the start of the final year of her second two-year term as a board member.

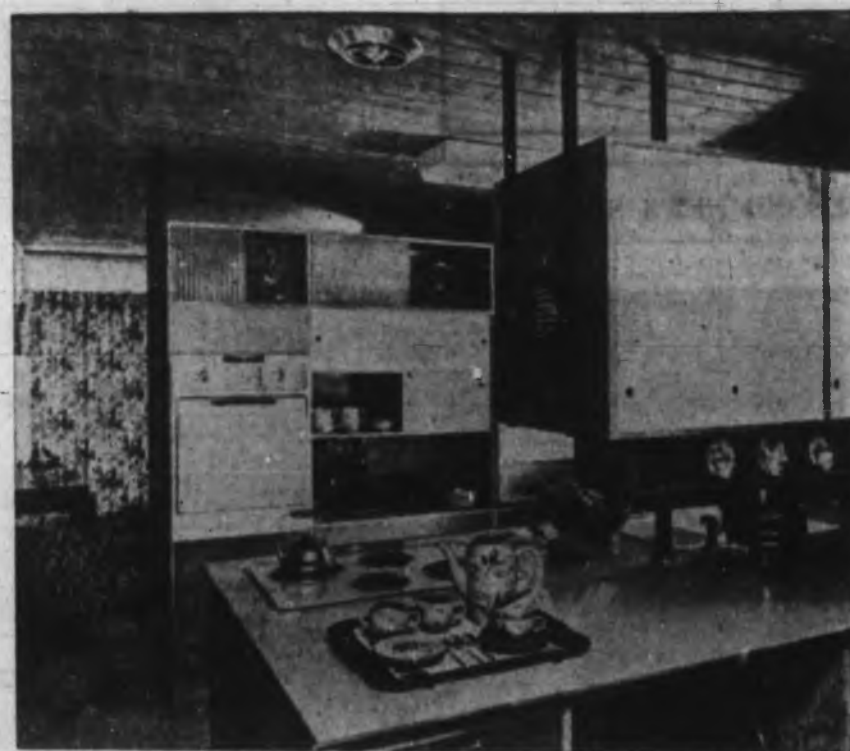

An honors graduate in English from the University of Saskatchewan, she moved here in 1949 from her home in Regina. She works in the welfare department and has written several plays, including lyrics and music for Everything's Go, a musical comedy that was well received by Vancouver critics.

She says women have much to contribute to civic affairs, especially school boards, since "they are dedicated to proper development of young minds."

And she says most men in politics act as if they were in a worldwide game of chess—"they try to please all sections and end up pleasing none."

"Women, unlike men, do not use political life as a stepping stone to wider fields. It is no accident that more women are taking an active role in community affairs."

Many informal, new homes feature kitchens that have a close relationship with the living areas. One of the best ways to include an open kitchen in your plan is to let it take the shape of peninsulas, as this work centre does. Off-the-floor cabinets and wall cabinets suspended from the ceiling keep the working centres from having a shut-in appearance. Appliances face into a central corridor to make work patterns go smoothly. On the living room side, storage cabinets present a neat appearance. A handy pass-through, to right of the built-in oven, opens to make service to the living room simple; there's no need to walk around peninsula. Kitchen shares the same ceiling and floor treatment as the rest of this area, thus, transition between rooms is well planned.

Coffee Party At Playhouse

Plans for the daffodil coffee party were made at a meeting of the Victoria Symphony Society Women's Committee held at the home of Mrs. D. S. Roxburgh.

The coffee party, which will be held April 10, opening day of the Spring Flower Festival, will be held in the upstairs foyer of the McPherson Playhouse, from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Reports were also given on the Symphony Ball and the Canadian Opera Company presentation sponsored by the committee last month.

PERSONAL MENTION

By DOROTHY WROTONOWSKI

This sunny, warm weather! Isn't it wonderful? The weather man promises it won't break yet so that means fun this weekend.

Of course, this sort of weather makes women feel that they need new spring clothes. And those that were lucky enough to be at the Oak Bay Marina Thursday evening probably went away with an idea of what they would like to wear this season.

There was a showing of fashions at the dinner hour. Very impressive, only two models, Laraine Travis and Maud Parks. Styles for both the younger and older woman were shown, the models strolling leisurely among the dining tables.

Nana Damske arranged the show and gave a lively, running commentary on the costumes and in some cases, included the price.

Soft background organ music was played by Bev Gore-Lang-ton and when the show was over he played the Hawaiian Wedding Song and Yellow Bird and made everyone who had been there think that they were back in Hawaii. Well, what's an imagination for?

They Liked It

The T. A. Browns, Herbert Brown and Mrs. and Mrs. George Craddock of Toronto were together. Though they hadn't known there was to be a show, they thoroughly enjoyed it.

Missing the fashions by just a few minutes were Dr. and Mrs. Vincent Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Smith and Dr. and Mrs. A. F. McGill, but they would like to have been there earlier.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Senby were with Mr. and Mrs. G. Papaloukas and Mrs. Raymond Baynes. Mrs. Senby thought the men were enjoying the fashions as much as the women. Fred McGraw denied he was an expert but thought it was well done and he liked it.

Fred was having dinner with

Listen to This

But listen to this one and don't be too envious. Edith Olson was looking charming! as usual. This time in a ribbon knit dress in a lovely shade of slate blue. She made the dress herself. This is not so unusual but she took so long in the knitting the dress that her husband bet her anything she wanted that she wouldn't finish it.

When he made this bold bet, Edith said, "You mean you'll bet something like a silver mink stole to go with this dress?" Speed agreed that was what he meant.

The silver mink stole looked really beautiful with the dress.

The Antique Bit

If you didn't know Victorians' love for auctions you would probably wonder what all the cars were doing parked at the corner of Fairfield and Foul Bay on Thursday afternoon.

There were some lovely antiques to be had at the home of the late Mrs. Margaret Grayson-Young.

Some things seemed to bring a high price, such as the 19 cups and saucers, early Minton white rose pattern, $190.

The other side of the picture was when well-known auctioneer Wm. Land asked for a starting bid on the 96 pieces of Georgian flatware. At a bid of $50 he wanted to know whether it was for the knives or the forks. Bidding finished at $150 and that was a bargain.

I may have been imagining it but I thought Wm. looked a little surprised when a small inlaid mahogany lady's writing table fetched $280.

Dealers were competing briskly; well-known ones like Dorothy Wiener, Michael Cotton and Capt. and Mrs. E. Wainman Wood of Maple Bay.

Mr. W. T. Reed was awfully pleased with his purchase of a pink Persian rug ($105) and Mrs. J. C. Hibbard looked equally pleased with a small chest of drawers.

Tourists-Big Business

There certainly isn't any greater booster of the tourist industry than Ben Worley. It is natural that Ben likes to see that Victorians do their best to look after the tourists. It is big business for Victorians.

Ben, who is assistant general manager of the B.C. Ferry Authority, was speaking at the tourist bureau annual meeting when he discussed the following figures:

Tourists in Victoria last year ate 356,000 eggs, 6,000 tons of meat; drank 55,000 gallons of milk; slept between 2,148,000 sheets; bought over a million gallons of gasoline and read 230,000 newspapers.

Makes them sound like a greedy lot.

Raising Children

Be Firm and They'll Love You Advises Hollywood Actress

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—Bette Davis calls herself "a tough Yankee mother" who didn't go by the books in bringing up her three children.

"They say never spank when you're angry," said Miss Davis. "I have a whole disrespect for the theory. I couldn't spank unless I was angry."

"If you're not firm, they won't love you."

"It's a rough world children are going into," said Miss Davis. "So they might as well start preparing for it at home."

But mix a hearty portion of love and attention in with the occasional swat, said the veteran actress. "Children who become teenage problems are not taken care of at home. If you're going to have children, this is your obligation."

And if you can't be around to see to them (you're a working wife, for instance), it's a parental obligation to see that good people are hired to be with them, she added.

One of the things she would like to see revived: the family meal with its innate strengthening of family togetherness. "But there are practically no dining room tables today," she complained. "It seems to me kids snack all the time."

The Davis children are Barbara (known as B.D.), 17; Margot, 14, and Michael, 13. Miss Davis, a woman of strong opinions on a variety of subjects, spoke also of marriage, the working wife, and her own durability as an actress during an interview. She and Olivia de Havilland had begun a series of personal appearances in major cities to help promote their new film, Hush...Hush, Sweet Charlotte.

Hollywood gets the reputation for the constant changing of marriage partners, but Miss Davis defended the movie capital. "There are more divorces in the average American community than in Hollywood," said the actress whose marriage to her fourth husband, Gary Merrill, ended in divorce in 1962.

Miss Davis said she thought "the greatest job" a woman can do is run a home. She took a fling at being a homemaker in Portland, Me., while married to Merrill.

"But if the wife must work to help support the family, there should be a 50-50 proposition at home," she said. "I have no use for the man who expects a working woman to be a total wife. There's nothing wrong with him realizing she gets tired too, and he occasionally puts her to bed and brings her supper. The insecure male is the one who won't help...the insecure one rebels at such as doing dishes. A real man would not think this was a

Newlyweds' to Make Home at Don Mills

An exquisite floor-length gown of heavy de-lustrated satin fashioned with an A-line skirt and highlighted with full over-skirt that extended into a train was chosen by Linda Gail Miles for her marriage to Mr. Terrence James McBratney at St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay.

The gown was styled with fitted bodice and lily-point sleeves and a bow at the waistline added back interest. Her four-tier veil misted to chapel-length from a self-fabric wedding ring headpiece. The bride's only jewelry was pearls, gift of the groom. Flame-colored roses and white carnations were in her cascade bouquet.

Canon J. Hywell Jones officiated at the double-ring ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. D. Miles, 439 Richmond Avenue, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. McBratney, 2936 Henderson Road. Mr. Miles gave his daughter in marriage.

A bouffant-skirted gown of blue satin, made by the bride's mother, was the choice of maid of honor, Miss Diana McBratney, groom's sister. Similar gowns in blue-green floral chiffon over blue taffeta, made by the bride, were worn by brides-matrons Mrs. R. Waterman and bridesmaid Miss Wendy Miles, the bride's sister.

Miss Tracie Miles, as flower girl for her sister, wore a floor-length gown of blue satin.

Mr. Larry Honour of New Westminster was best man and ushering guests to pews were Mr. Ron Waterman and Mr. Robin Farquhar.

At the reception which followed in the Carlton Club the bride's table was centred with a three-tiered cake surrounded by two floral leis sent from Hawaii by the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Svend Emboldt. The bride's grandmother, Mrs. A. Miles, made the wedding cake and Mrs. J. Roger decorated it. Mr. John Law presented the toast to the bride.

Leaving on a motor trip to Toronto the bride wore an oost-meal-toned wool dressmaker suit that she made herself.

The newlyweds will make their home in Don Mills, Ont.

Freedom March Topic
At Metropolitan United

The Man Behind the Freedom March has been chosen as Rev. Laura Butler's evening sermon topic in Metropolitan United Church Sunday.

Morning sermon by Rev. Albert E. King will be The Christian Concept of Sin.

Special Lenten preacher at evening service in St. John's Anglican will be Ven. A. E. Hendy of St. Dunstan's. Morning sermon topic by Canon George Biddle will be "Father Forgive Them—They Know Not What They Do."

Dr. H. W. Kerley of Fairfield United Church will continue his series of sermons on Personalities and passions. His morning service will be on the enigmatic character of Judas and will offer an explanation of why he betrayed his Lord.

During his Vital Questions sermon in the evening the question Why Is Evil Allowed will be considered.

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be observed at morning worship at St. Andrew's Presbyterian and at a shortened service immediately following evening worship.

Dr. J. L. W. McLean's sermon topics will be The New Man and A Visible Sign.

Morning sermon in First Baptist Church by Rev. John A. Watson will be What Is Man?

In the evening the sermon theme will be Injustices of Life, dealing with questions young people are asking.

Jesus Speaks About the Cross is the theme of Rev. A. C. Hamilton's morning sermon in Emmanuel Baptist Church.

The series on Parables Speak to Us will continue in the evening with the topic Pride and Humility.

Holy communion will be celebrated at 8 a.m. and family communion and instruction at 9:30 a.m. in Christ Church Cathedral. Sermon will be by Rev. E. W. S. Gilbert.

Rev. E. Laura Butler

Sermon at 11 a.m. Mattins will be by Dean Brian Whitlow. At 4 p.m. Canon Brian Page will preach the sermon at Evening.

In his series This Is Our Faith Rev. Robert R. J. D. Morris will speak on The Living Word at morning services in First United Church.

At 7:30 p.m. service the topic will be The Holy Spirit and the Life of Christ.

THE VOICE

By REV. DR. FRANK S. MORLEY

"We are all at the mercy of falling tiles," says Julius Caesar in Thornton Wilder's Ides of March. It may be an avalanche such as that which crashed through the lives of those British Columbia miners. It may be the plane that crashes into New York harbor just after take-off. "Falling tiles" hit all of us in one of a thousand different forms, unexpectedly, destructively.

It is a crisis when life challenges faith. That was what Jesus had in mind in the story of the Rich Fool who thought he had built security through material resources. Then came the crash. "Thou fool! This night thy soul shall be required of thee!" In this crisis, says Jesus, there is no substitute for the soul.

No one knew the conflict of life in all its hideous forms better than the Apostle Paul. He warns us:

"Wherefore take unto you the whole armor of God, that ye may be able to stand in the evil day, and having done all to stand. Stand therefore, having your loins girt about with truth and having on the breastplate of righteousness, and your feet shod with the preparation of the gospel of peace; above all, taking the shield of faith, wherewith ye shall be able to quench all the fiery darts of the wicked. And take the helmet of salvation, and the sword of the spirit, which is the Word of God; praying always with all prayer and supplication in the Spirit, and watching with all perseverance..."

One hesitates to comment on these words and try to give a lily. Nevertheless it should be seen that we can never emphasize these truths too much. Who does not know "the evil day" or "the fiery darts of the wicked"? If you think your neighbor doesn't, you are being deceived by his courage.

All around are hearts so desperate that they can scarcely struggle through, lives so twisted and full of pain that it seems worthwhile going on, and they don't know how they can face another day.

No man can keep his feet and come out victorious relying on his own strength alone. The author of "I am the master of my fate, I am the captain of my soul," committed suicide.

So did the philosopher, Nietzsche, who taught the doctrine of the Superman. A man needs "the whole armor of God," faith, the Bible, prayer, and the power of the Holy Spirit.

Robert Louis Stevenson remembered a moment of crisis: "You know the Caledonian Railway Station in Edinburgh? One cold, east windy morning I met Satua there."

Macbeth recalled that the witches spoke to him in the hour of his triumph: "Let him be king, let him be king, let him be king..."

In 1850, Esther Howland of Worcester, Mass., captured the American market with her home-made Valentine cards, but she died a spinster in 1904.

Missionary Talks Planned

An annual world mission conference will open Sunday at Alliance Church with missionary speakers showing movies of their work overseas.

Sunday the featured speaker will be Miss Ruth Stanley, a Canadian missionary from the Republic of Congo.

Commencing Tuesday evening Rev. Vernon L. Neigenfeld, a missionary in Indonesia, will share lecture time with Miss Stanley.

They Went to War

Passive Resistance
Not for 'Sally Ann'

By DOUG MARSHALL

LONDON (CP)—Dozens of evangelical movements sprang up amid the disease, dirt and destitution that were the ugly byproducts of 19th-century capitalism in England.

Most of the missions faltered and vanished in a morass of social problems too vast to be solved by simple Christian inspiration.

The Salvation Army, 100 years old this year, survived and thrived largely because it assumed passive pastoral preaching. With drums beating and brass bands blaring, it went to war.

Today the Army, known affectionately throughout the English-speaking world as "the Sally Ann," has 25,418 officers working in 85 countries.

It operates from some 18,000 centres, including 2,000 social institutions, and has nearly 900 day schools scattered throughout Africa and Asia.

More than 2,500 overseas delegates are expected to attend centenary celebrations in London in June and July. Events will include a Festival of Youth, open-air devotional meetings, festivals of salvation songs and a service of thanksgiving in Westminster Abbey during which a plaque will be unveiled commemorating the life and work of the Salvation Army's founder, William Booth.

The Army traces its origins back to Sunday, July 2, 1865, when Booth, a former Methodist minister, conducted his first meeting in a ragged tent in Whitechapel, centre of London's poverty-stricken East End.

The mission's name wasn't coined until 1878 when Booth, in a draft report, described his efforts as "a volunteer army." Booth's son Bramwell said this would give the impression that they were all spare-time workers.

"I'm a regular or nothing," he said.

Booth then crossed out the word "volunteer" and substituted "salvation." Although one realized it at the time, this simple alteration determined the whole development of the movement into a quasi-military organization with a hierarchy of officers of both sexes dressed in tight-necked tunics matching the British army uniforms of the Boer War.

Booth later said he "found his destiny" in the squalid East End slums of a century ago where thousands of men were unemployed and unemployable.

It was an area where beer shops stayed open 18 hours a day and advertised: "Drunk for One Penny; Dead Drunk for Two Pence."

Alcohol was and remains one of the prime social evils as far as the Army is concerned.

Booth counter-attacked the pubs with temperance halls and missions where the poor and hungry could buy cheap, wholesome food and get a warm bed.

Surviving attacks by jeering mobs, arrests by hostile police and even the witty sophism of playwright George Bernard Shaw, the Army rapidly invaded the rest of Britain and spread across the sea. In 1890 a beachhead was established in the United States.

Operations started in Canada May 24, 1892, when two English immigrants, Jack Addie and Joe Ludgate, put on the first of a series of evangelistic meetings in London, Ont.

Despite some initial opposition (Addie was arrested for obstruction on one occasion but was freed by the magistrate) the organization caught on and soon spread across the country.

Today there are more than 1,800 officers and cadets and nearly 5,000 full-time employees serving in 1,400 centres in Canada, in addition to 55,000 junior and senior bandmen and 114,000 vocalists.

CHURCHILL TRIBUTE

Before Booth died at 83 in 1912, Winston Churchill had called him one of the three greatest generals he had known. The present and eighth general—there has been one American and one Australian—is Frederick Cook.

Although its missionary work is clear and necessary, many critics consider the Salvation Army an anachronism in the modern welfare state.

To meet this criticism the Army has recently been updating its image, considering a new uniform and introducing a guitar-playing group. The Joy Strings, to supplement the traditional tamborines, trombones and drums.

WORST TRAGEDY

The present territorial commissioner for Canada and Bermuda, Edgar Grinstead, said on his arrival at the Toronto headquarters last year he planned to inaugurate such groups as The Joy Strings in Canada.

Although a still battling the demon drink, many Army officers have come to believe that sexual immorality is the greatest social evil of modern times. The last General, Wilfred Kitchen, called the lowering of moral standards of sexual purity "a tragedy of our age."

HELPING YOUTH

"We are also concentrating much of our modern social welfare activity on youth," said a spokesman in the Army's new (1,000,000 International Headquarters in London. "We think the Army has a key part to play in fighting juvenile delinquency."

A measure of the Army's continuing strength is the success of its famed crusading newspaper War Cry, with a circulation of 250,000 in Britain and 81,000 in Canada. The Army's publication for children, Young Soldier, is even more successful.

RECKS SUCCESS

A legion of down-and-outs throughout the Western world still seeks succor from the Salvation Army, with its mixture of tolerance, warmth and humanity.

Social legislation can feed and clothe the needy. But it lacks the hope and charity, the feeling that "somebody cares," which is the special province of the Salvation Army.

Separatism Their Creed

Anti-Ecumenical Baptists Fear Compromise of Principle

By IAN ARBO.

Last Sunday I went to Central Baptist Church, 833 Pandora Avenue, and Tuesday afternoon visited the minister, Rev. Robert D. Holmes.

Two baptisms by immersion preceded the regular 7:30 p.m. service.

Mr. Holmes appeared for the ceremony as from a balcony, from a recess high in the wall back the pulpit. He was visible from about the waist up.

Before the first to be baptized joined him, Mr. Holmes explained the significance of the ordinance as the outward sign of the inner working of Christ, the public declaration of personal faith.

"Baptism by immersion symbolizes the death, burial and resurrection of Jesus Christ."

After the congregation sang "I am not ashamed to own my Lord, or to defend His cause," the first gowned candidate came into the baptistry.

After she formally acknowledged the Saviour, the minister put one arm around her shoulder and she leaned backwards for complete immersion in the water.

Then as the minister brought her upright again, the congregation sang another verse and chorus. The baptized one left for the changing room on the side and a second candidate appeared.

All Baptist churches have the ordinance of baptism by immersion in common. Central Baptist, however, is not associated with any other in Victoria proper.

Central is a member with 48 others—10 on the Island—of the Convention of Regular Baptist Churches of B.C. and the Fellowship of Evangelical Baptist Churches in Canada.

Holmes

ated with the Baptist Federation of Canada.

"We are in a sense a separatist group," said Mr. Holmes. "We feel joining with the council or with other ecumenical movements would involve a compromise of principle."

He accepts the Bible as the final word of God. He believes in the virgin birth of Christ.

"Christ, the very son of God, purchased man's redemption on the Cross."

NOT IN HARMONY
"What is commonly being preached in many pulpits today is not in harmony with the basic principles of repentance toward God and faith in Christ as the essentials for salvation."

"These principles are being replaced by a union of man based on man's understanding. Ecumenism on this basis will not really bring any true unity."

Asked about the church's responsibility toward the problems of the community and the world, Mr. Holmes said that salvation was the primary need in the world. "Otherwise you are putting the cart before the horse."

MUST BE REBORN
"Man does not have the capacity to solve the problems of the world on his own."

"Basically man is unregenerate by nature and by choice. He must be born again, then instructed in the Scriptures to be the man God would have him be."

"I am not anti-United Nations and wish and pray it might have God's wisdom. But because of broad differences, there does not appear to be any particular interest on its part in seeking wisdom from God."

FOREIGN MISSIONS
"I do not think there will ever be what man is trying to achieve—peace, in its purest sense—until Christ returns, regardless of admirable men of goodwill desiring peace."

Central Baptist has its own program of internationalism with 17 foreign missionaries. All are members of the church, but other churches also help in their support.

Four "outside" groups meet at the church each month—Mission to Israel, the Gideons Association, the China Inland Mission and the Mission to Lepers.

SEATS 150
Membership is 390, including 50 of high school age.

The church seats 750, and is comfortably full at both services each Sunday. One of the most modern architecturally, it continues to tell "the old, old story."

JOINT RESPONSIBILITY
Establishment and maintenance of the college would be the joint responsibility of the Anglicans and Roman Catholics though Bishop De Roo felt that once established other denominations would be invited to take part and name chaplains.

"The college would aim to be in practice an ecumenical centre for all Christian denominations on the campus," he said.

COLLEGE COUNCIL
The college council will consist of 30 members including representatives from each faculty, the dean of studies and the deans of men and women.

University representatives will sit on both boards.

CONTROL AND AUTHORITY
In all matters pertaining to the establishment and development of the college would go to a board of regents equally divided between the Roman Catholics and the Anglicans.

EX OFFICIO MEMBERS
The bishop and archbishop as well as the president and treasurer of the college would sit on as ex officio members.

This board would refrain from dealing with the academic area of the college.

ACADEMIC AREA
The academic area will be handled partly by relations to the university and partly by the college council.

REMINAR SYSTEM
He explained that much use would be made of the tutorial and seminar system, and a study supervisor would be appointed for each student.

Archbishop Sexton said that the curriculum and time-table would mesh with the university courses and that students from the college would be able to take courses from the university and university students could do the same at the college.

UNIVERSITY STANDARDS
Academic standards at the college would be subject to university supervision and control, Bishop De Roo said.

He explained that faculty appointments would be made by the college subject to the applicants satisfying the academic requirements of the university.

Adult education courses in conjunction with the university's evening division would be instituted when it is deemed feasible.

Plan for Theological College Still Actively Considered

By CHARLES LA VERTU

Plan to develop a joint theological college at the University of Victoria's Gordon Head campus is still under active consideration, Bishop Remi De Roo said this week.

Bishop De Roo said the college would be designed for 100 students and seven faculty members.

Provision would be made for expansion for 200 students, three years later, with more faculty, and 500 at a later date.

FIRST STUDENTS
At first students would be Anglicans or Roman Catholics and as the new college became established, students of other denominations will be accepted.

The proposed college is currently under study by a subcommittee of the university senate.

RESIDENTIAL TEACHING
The college would be a residential teaching institution, teaching liberal arts, Bishop De Roo said.

It is seeking affiliation with the University of Victoria and will seek a degree-granting charter from the legislature.

It would then have power to grant degrees in abeyance as long as it is affiliated to the university, he said.

"Common rooms, classrooms and dining room would be provided and a library would be established to work in association with the university library," Archbishop Harold Sexton said in a brief to the senate.

The academic program will be based on the "Schools of Study System" with emphasis on "interdisciplinary communication," Bishop De Roo said.

REMINAR SYSTEM
He explained that much use would be made of the tutorial and seminar system, and a study supervisor would be appointed for each student.

Archbishop Sexton said that the curriculum and time-table would mesh with the university courses and that students from the college would be able to take courses from the university and university students could do the same at the college.

Pope Plans Open-Air Easter Mass

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Pope Paul will officiate an open-air mass on the steps of St. Peter's at 11:15 a.m. Easter Sunday, April 18, it was announced Friday.

He will then deliver his Easter message to the world from the central balcony of the Basilica at noon and will impart his blessing "urbis orbi" to the city and the world.

Pope Paul has a fondness for open-air religious rites and has held several of them outside St. Peter's, starting with his coronation June 30, 1963.

FBI Gets Two On Car Thefts

SEATTLE (AP)—Two men arrested in Bellingham the same day under similar circumstances—but in separate incidents—were each sentenced to five years' imprisonment by U.S. District Judge William T. Beeks Friday after they pleaded guilty.

They were James David Lucien Dekeiver, 41, Vancouver, B.C., and James L. Pickers, 28, Boise, Idaho.

Both were arrested by FBI agents Monday and charged with transportation of stolen automobiles across boundaries—Dekeiver from Kansas to Bellingham and Pickers from Seattle to Burnaby, B.C.

House Approves Labor Spending

Labor department estimates of $1,434,364 were approved Thursday after only four hours debate. Members then turned to the $76,908,190 for the highways department.

TV TALK

By BRUCE LOWTHER

TV NOTES: NBC says it is the first network to complete its schedule for the 1965-66 season. Last confirmed programs were Please Don't Eat the Daisies and the Juliet Prowse show... Hullabaloo has been cut to half an hour as of September and CBS has cancelled Mr. Ed again... The U.S. National Association of Broadcasters has warned that TV commercials of war toys should try to show them as playthings rather than as realistic things.

The U.S. Senate is said to have decided to kill a pet project of the Federal Communications Commission, to slash multiple ownership of stations in the top 50 U.S. markets... The Senate will open hearings soon on cigarette advertising... The FCC has barred actual and simulated drinking from beer and wine commercials. Not even lip smacking is allowed.

Love of Car Too Much for Jean

COULOMMIERS, France — Hardware clerk Jean Depéme loved his car. He nursed it, spent money on it, said he couldn't live without it. Then he hit a pole and the car was a total loss. "There's nothing left for me but to shoot myself in the head," Depéme, 30, told the garage mechanic. He promptly did so, and is in a deep coma at a local hospital.

NEW YORK — The New York Post says film star Kim Novak, 32, and British actor Richard Johnson, 37, are planning to be married within a few days, probably at Aspen, Col. where they are holidaying.

HOUSTON — Doctors have begun tests on Siamese twin girls, born 10 days ago in Puerto Rico, to see if they can be successfully separated. Ruth and Dulce Pantaleon were born to Silvio and Dulce Pantaleon.

LONDON — Russian Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko will meet Prime Minister Wilson here next week. Gromyko will hold three meetings to discuss the Viet Nam Crisis and other world issues with Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart during his five-day official visit.

SHEFFIELD — Portuguese pianist Sergio Varella gave a recital before an audience of 150 here — accompanied by the sound of the Rolling Stones pop group. The Stones were giving a performance to 2,000 screaming fans from an adjacent stage in the town hall. Said the pianist angrily, "If I had known I would have asked for another date."

VANCOUVER — Two brothers have been sentenced for carrying out an arson conspiracy at Narrowsgate Sawmill. Jagir Singh Johl and his brother Karan Singh were sentenced by Mr. Justice Craig Moore to two and one-half years in the penitentiary.

SEATTLE — The first successful winter ascent of Mt. Robson, British Columbia, was announced here by four Seattle men and a Vancouver, B.C., climber. They are Alex Bertulis, Fred Beckey, Tom Stewart and Eric Bjornstad, all of Seattle, and Dr. Lett Patterson of Vancouver.

SACRAMENTO — A Canadian pleaded not guilty in federal court to charges he had 16 ounces of heroin concealed in his small plane when he was arrested at Yuba County airport several weeks ago. Federal Judge Thomas MacBride ordered Ray Joseph Travis of Vancouver, to stand trial before a jury in Sacramento.

JAKARTA, Indonesia — Indonesian Goltang Bak faces a five-month jail sentence for asking Radio Malaysia to play "Pretty Blue Eyes" for him. Goltang, who is of Chinese descent, is on trial in Bandung for disobeying a presidential decree forbidding Indonesians to listen to the station.

NEW YORK — Melba H. Lee, 34, daughter of former UN secretary-general Trygve Lie, and Stein Von Meck, 40, a Paris-born chemical engineer, have obtained a marriage licence.

TORONTO — Canada's leaders joined with friends and citizens of many walks of life in Saint Paul's Anglican Church for the funeral of Mrs. George Drew, 53, wife of the former premier of Ontario and Canadian high commissioner to the United Kingdom.

LONDON — Lord Mowbray has accused the London Museum of using the remains of one of his ancestors as a "guinea pig." The remains of Anne Mowbray, eight-year-old Duchess of York, who died 500 years ago, were discovered in a casket on a building site. A home office spokesman says the museum is using the body for scientific research and the remains may not be re-buried for another three months.

BIRMINGHAM, England — Prison officer Francis Clarke, who worked at Winslow Green jail here for 10 years, returned to the institution for another two years — as a prisoner. He was sentenced for offering to help an inmate escape.

HELSINKI — Kauno Kivimäki, 58, speaker of the Finnish parliament since 1962, is dead at 58.

Young Nurse 'Ages' In Long Cave Test

NICE, France (UPI) — A pretty young French midwife emerged Friday after living 88 days alone in an Alpine cave. She found she was two weeks older than she thought.

"I made it Feb. 25 by my reckoning," Nurse Josie Laurens, 26, told reporters after rescuers brought her out into the sunshine after her voluntary ordeal 328 feet underground.

LONELINESS

Miss Laurens had been in the French Alpine cave since Dec. 14 as part of an unofficial French experiment to test the reactions of the human mechanism to conditions of isolation and loneliness similar to those of space flight.

"I was never bored," Miss Laurens said. "I read, I knitted, I wove baskets and listened to music on my tape recorder. But the last few days were getting increasingly tough on me. I felt a bit dejected and lost interest in everything around me."

Miss Laurens said the worst thing she experienced was the relentless red color of the walls of her cave, illuminated by her electric lamp.

FLOATING ON AIR

"At times I became obsessed by seeing everything red," she said. "I even had red dreams."

When she first emerged in her mud-stained, red-quilted coveralls, the French nurse said: "I feel as if I am floating on air. I feel like an old woman."

The cave where the nurse spent her lonely 88 days was as big as a four-room apartment. She had a white mouse and three goldfish for company and played tape recordings of Beethoven and Mozart.

Colleagues Told

Pearson Weighing Election Chances

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson has informed close cabinet colleagues he is thinking of calling an early general election, informed sources say.

The informants said the prime minister outlined his views on a possible election at a war council with five key cabinet ministers Wednesday evening at his Sussex Drive residence.

TOP ECHELON

At the meeting were his Quebec leader, Justice Minister Guy Favreau; the Liberal party's campaign co-chairman, Finance Minister Gordon; Mr. Pearson's senior cabinet colleague, External Affairs Minister Martin; Transport Minister Pickersglill; and Labor Minister MacEachern.

The prime minister is understood to have made no definite decision to call an election. In fact sources said many of his ministers, and probably a majority of the party's parliamentary caucus, are opposed to one at this time.

Those opposed to an election now argue Mr. Pearson's motivation—to deliver another blow to Opposition Leader Diefenbaker and to win a majority to produce a better climate in the Commons—is not a sufficient reason for calling a vote.

Letter from Lucky:

Is Lucien Rivard already out of the country?

The "Lucky Lucy" of the Dorion Inquiry, now one of the most wanted men in Canada's history after escaping last week from Bordeaux jail in Montreal—indicates that he was ready to leave some time ago.

The disclosures came in a letter to Mrs. Rivard, postmarked Vancouver.

However, the letter was interpreted as a feint to throw them off the track by police, who still had not seen the letter last night.

An English translation of the letter was received late yesterday afternoon by The Daily Colonist.

The key part of the letter read:

"I'm leaving tomorrow for elsewhere. So in 15 days I will write you a word and if I find what I want and you want to join me, this will be a great pleasure to me."

Full text of the letter (translated from the French):

Good evening My Beautiful

Heart. It's with great pleasure I am taking a moment of liberty to write a few words. I hope that your health is good, also your family and my family.

My health is excellent but I am very tired.

Darling, I am very sorry for all the bad publicity I caused you and my mother.

Please forgive me, Angel, for all the sadness I am causing you, but it is a decision I took after your visit on Tuesday. (To Bordeaux Jail the day Rivard broke out.) Maybe you will think I lost my head but I thought that it was the only open door left for me.

It's too bad I did not think of this escape before because I would have directions to give concerning my case and our future "reunion."

This will be for later. If you still care for me.

This would have been so simple if they would have given me bail at first. Then

Police Insist:

Rivard Still In Montreal

MONTREAL (CP)—Quebec provincial police are convinced fugitive Lucien Rivard wrote a letter to his wife with a Vancouver postmark to "trick" police into thinking he had fled Montreal.

"We think the letter is a trick, and we're still convinced Rivard is in Montreal," said Sub-Insp. Jean Gagnon.

"Why should he go to Vancouver? Montreal is a big town. There are a million places he can hide out here, where he has a lot of friends in the underworld."

REGULAR MAIL

The four-page letter written in French, with the envelope flaps glued together indicating it had been opened and sealed again, was delivered by regular mail to Rivard's wife Marie Tuesday.

She said in a brief interview at her north-end home Friday that the letter, dated March 6—four days after Rivard's escape—was from her husband.

WRONG TRACK?

Insp. Gagnon said police believe Rivard wrote the letter, but that it was mailed from Vancouver by somebody else.

In Quebec City, Attorney-General Claude Wagner agreed that the letter was obviously "a move to put police on the wrong track."

"It seems to me that this is a strategy to get the people interested in Rivard's capture to direct the search toward Vancouver, while I'm convinced he is in Montreal. The whole matter about the letter is fishy."

SAYS RED-HERRING

Mr. Wagner said he had discussed the letter with Joseph Brunet, director of the Quebec provincial police in Montreal, and both agreed it was a diversionary action by Rivard.

Word that the letter had been received by Mrs. Rivard was first reported by French-Jarrett, a Montreal broadcaster who announced it over radio station CJMS.

Jarrett said he got a telephone tip about the letter for which publication rights were later bought by Dimanche-Matin, a Montreal French-language weekly, and The Toronto Telegram, with other English.

Mansion To Hack

Out-of-town reporter Friday unmasked Chicago cab driver as William Casey Marland, 44, governor of West Virginia from 1953 to 1956—but Marland said he didn't mind. He admitted drinking cost him governor's and other jobs until he joined AA in 1961 and said driving a cab "is a good job for character compensation."

His boss said, "He's a good driver. I'd hate to lose him."—(AP)

Egan

A telegram unsurpassed in U.S. political history was sent Friday by Alaska Governor William Egan to Alabama Governor George Wallace.

"From the depths of my heart, George Wallace—I consider you to be even more guilty than those who wielded the actual weapons that murdered James J. Reeb."

"When your judgment day comes, I hope that God, in his infinite grace, can find some way to lead mercy for your soul."

Gemini Flight

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. space agency said Friday the first orbital flight of two astronauts in a Gemini spacecraft may be attempted Monday, March 22.

Opposition members of the legislature lashed out Friday at a government bill designed to subsidize medical insurance premiums of low-income groups.

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan led the attack by declaring the bill "not a true health measure, not a true medicare plan."

He said the New Democratic Party supports the principle that every citizen has a right to medical care.

"This government believes medical care is a privilege to be granted on the basis of financial status," he said.

"Money or the lack of money will be the qualifying factor."

The opposition leader said that to say the bill provides for no means test "is absolutely false."

MUST BE POOR

"The individual's ability to prove he is poor will determine his right to qualify for subsidies under the bill."

Under the proposed Medical Grants Act, the government will pay half the premiums of approved non-profit insurance carriers for all persons who pay no income tax and 25 per cent of the premiums of those whose taxable income is under $1,000 a year.

The bill also provides for a stabilization fund under which premiums of poor risks would be held to a maximum level. The government would pay $1,000,000 a year into the fund.

IMPEDES PROGRESS

The NDP speakers said they would vote against the bill in second reading (approval in principle because the proposed voluntary plan would only impede progress toward a comprehensive scheme).

William Hartley (NDP—Yale) said the legislature was being asked "to do less than nothing."

The plan was a road block to progress.

Debate on second reading went on nearly three hours and did not reach a vote.

HALF OF LOAF

Premier Bennett said the NDP policy was: "If you can't give them a whole loaf don't give them half a loaf."

The premier declared his government is firmly committed to joining a national health plan as soon as one is devised.

He said the NDP wanted B.C. to introduce a plan similar to Saskatchewan's, which had created "civil warfare."

"Class warfare, that's what you want," he shouted.

Director Dead

From Bank

NICE, France (AP)—The director of the Bank of Nice was found dead Friday and the bank closed down for an inventory.

Investigators found only $6,000 of the bank's listed deposits of $4,000,000, first reports said. If the money is lost, it could mean financial ruin for several construction companies, a number of other large businesses and many local depositors on the Riviera.

CAB IN WATER

A judicial inquiry had been opened against the bank's director, Louis Martinon, to determine if there had been any embezzlement. He was found dead at the wheel of his car under 13 feet of water in a reservoir.

COSTLY PROJECT

Martinon, 51, had been heavily involved in a large development project, including an amusement park, swimming pool and miniature train. Riviera business circles said the project had drained Martinon's entire personal fortune and he was struggling for additional funds to keep from losing it.

Martinon took over management of the bank in 1963 on the death of his father, the founder.

Four Charged

MEDELLIN, Colombia (AP)—Carlos Mejia Flores, the kidnapped nine-year-old son of a millionaire rancher-industrialist was rescued Friday in an afternoon raid on a house on the outskirts of Medellin. Four persons were arrested and charged with kidnapping.

Selma Bans All Marches

SELMA, Ala. (AP)—The city council voted Friday not to permit any further racial protest marches in Selma.

He Does, For One

WASHINGTON (LAT)—While most Americans squirmed over racial unrest in Alabama, a uniformed "storm trooper" of the American Nazi Party marched in front of the White House with a placard reading "Who Needs Niggers?"

Leader of the three-man police guard that assured his safety was a Negro.

The action came as rain-soaked Negroes stood at a police barricade and pledged to walk to the courthouse in memory of a slain Boston minister.

The stalemate thwarted an attempted compromise by Leroy Collins, here as President Johnson's representative. Collins said city officials had agreed earlier to allow Negroes to walk in small groups to the courthouse. There hundreds of them had sought for weeks to register to vote.

In other developments today:

● At President Johnson's direction, an airplane flew to Birmingham to pick up Reeb's widow and father. The clergyman's body was cremated Thursday night and the ashes taken to the Casper, Wyo., home of the father.

● After four hours of consultations in Washington on the Alabama civil rights problem, Johnson was quoted as saying he "will not be blackjacked by any pressure of picketing" into precipitate action.

● Johnson agreed to confer with Alabama Governor George Wallace. "I will be available in my office at any time that is convenient to you," he told Wallace, who had telegraphed the White House for an appointment.

● A marathon, 230-mile relay run from New York to Washington will be staged beginning Sunday and using an until "freedom torch." The final runner will attempt to present the torch to President Johnson Tuesday.

● Civil rights lawyers tried in federal court at Montgomery to obtain an order allowing a Selma-to-Montgomery protest march.

Canadian Tribute

OTTAWA (UPI)—Tom Barnett (NDP—Comox-Alberni) suggested Friday the government send a "tribute to the memory of the late Rev. James Reeb" to President Johnson.

Laing

'Small' Find Near Dawson

Oil Discovered in Yukon

NANAIMO—Oil was discovered early this week in the Yukon, 60 miles north of Dawson City, Northern Affairs Minister Arthur Laing disclosed Friday during a guest speech to a Rotary luncheon.

He did not elaborate except to say the strike was not large and a large scale drilling program will begin in the area by 1966.

He said wildcaters working in the high Arctic have not been successful in their search for oil but iron ore found on Baffin Island has a concentration of 68 per cent, higher than anywhere else in the world.

Mr. Laing predicted a boom in the Yukon and the Northwest Territories with the development of the Pine Point Railway and the increased effort going into the search for new resources.

He described the north as Canada's last frontier and said "We must have a united Canada more than 100 miles from the U.S. border in order to build this nation in depth. The outlook for the north is very good."

Development of resources is the way to get our money back in that territory, he said.

END OF CENTURY

"It would be better if Canada owned more of its own resources but I predict that by the end of the century it will be a seller's market."

Mr. Laing urged Canadians to study more seriously the water resources of the north.

"The wise dispensation of our water resources will influence the future prosperity of Canada for generations to come," he said.

CANADIAN ITEM

He asked for a nationalistic attitude toward Canada's water resources. "Our American neighbors talk in terms of continental resources, Canada's waterways should be talked of as a Canadian resource."

The B.C. minister said he was pleased with the progress being made by the Eskimo people, especially their increasing birthrate and the virtual end of tuberculosis.

FEW SUFFERING

Ten years ago, 30 per cent of the Eskimo population was afflicted with TB, today few Eskimos suffer from the disease.

The present birth rate is 45 per thousand, compared to the national average of 26 per thousand.

has decided to ask an RCMP traffic expert and a provincial highways department engineer to come to the district to study traffic problems on provincial roads in the city. These would

Jail Chosen By Pedlar

DUNCAN—Charles Daly, no fixed address, has chosen to serve two days in jail in default of a $10 fine assessed against him in magistrate's court for illegal peddling.

He was apprehended by police here following a complaint from a North Cowichan taxpayer.

Nanaimo Court

Cheque Writer Pleads Guilty

NANAIMO — A 20-year-old youth was sentenced in magistrate's court Thursday to 15 months definite and two years less a day indeterminate on conviction of attempting to pass two forged cheques here last April.

Magistrate Lionel Beevor-Potts told Ernie James Blanchard the sentence is to be concurrent with a term he is already serving for possession of stolen goods. He was convicted last year of being in possession of goods stolen from a Qualicum liquor store.

RETURN TO HANEY

The magistrate recommended he be returned to Haney where he is completing his high school education.

Blanchard pleaded guilty to attempting to pass forged cheques at a men's wear store and a downtown hotel last April.

Police said the cheques were completed with a cheque protectograph stolen from Water Welding and Engineering Company, Victoria.

They said both attempts were unsuccessful and that there was no connection between Blanchard and theft of the machine.

Court was told he has a record of two convictions of assault causing bodily harm, escaping lawful custody, theft under $50 and possession of goods stolen by means of a forged document.

Hoop Final Today In Duncan

DUNCAN—Ten teams from seven centres will take part in the Vancouver Island midweek boys and girls basketball tournament, which begins at 9:30 a.m. today in Cowichan Senior Secondary School gym.

The double-knockout tournament features teams from Victoria, Brentwood, Comox, Courtenay, Cumberland, Nanaimo and Duncan.

Heated Pool in May At Campbell River

CAMPBELL RIVER—The heating unit for the centennial swimming pool here has been ordered and should be operating in May, officials of the Campbell River Recreation Association have announced.

A campaign to raise the necessary $6,000 began last September and a cheque for $5,698 was handed recently to Reeve

Jack Lee by association superintendent Andy Anderson.

Rotary member Bud Denholm, chairman of the fund-raising committee, says no difficulty is anticipated in obtaining the balance.

Municipal crews have completed extensive pool repairs and installed larger feeder pipes as a prelude to installation of the heating unit.

Mt. Arrowsmith

Another Minister Red Cross Head

QUALICUM BEACH—The Mt. Arrowsmith branch of the Red Cross, whose annual fund drive is already in progress, has elected Rev. Eric Blackstock as president for 1965, succeeding Rev. William Hills.

No Blame In Death

DUNCAN—The death of a three-year-old Colwood girl on a farm near here March 2 was a drowning accident, coroner D. K. McAdam said Friday following an inquiry.

He said no blame was attached to anyone in the death of Heather Loretta Baker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Best Baker. The child fell in a 2½-foot-deep, water-filled sump-hole on a chicken farm her family was visiting.

Other officers are Mrs. Betty Parker, first vice-president; Reginald Gates, second vice-president; and Mrs. Eileen Allwood, secretary-treasurer. Jack Booth is managing the campaign for $1,996 in the district.

CHAIRMAN NAMED

Committee chairmen include Parksville disaster relief, Mr. Booth; Qualicum Beach disaster relief, James Stewart; water safety and swimming, Mrs. Parker; Junior Red Cross, Mr. Gates; Qualicum Beach blood clinic, Mrs. H. K. Waldmann; Parksville clinic, Mrs. H. Estlin; loan cupboard, Mrs. E. Sanders; Mrs. N. Brand, home nursing, and Henry Brown, publicity.

include Mac-Powell's proposal for a safety no-parking area on Kingsway next to the Somass mill exit, shopping centre entrances, the turnoff to the pulp and paper division, and the Stamp-Rogers intersection.

GANGES—Work has begun on the addition of a sunroom to Lady Minto Gulf Islands Hospital, which will be financed by a one-third grant from the provincial government and by private donations. The hospital's board of management awarded the contract to Cruickshank Construction of Ganges, the low bidder.

COMOX—An Albatross search plane from RCAF Station Comox recently inspected Goose Island in an effort to locate Herbert Hall, who disappeared Feb. 27 in a 14-foot boat. The searchers found footprints on the island, but no trace of the missing man.

PORT ALBERNI—Ald. James Macfie of Port Alberni and Ald. William Marshall of Alberni have been named to the local regional college advisory committee. The Alberni district school board is setting up the group, which will include representatives of the municipalities, school board, unions, industry and commerce, and secondary school counselors.

CUMBERLAND—Holy Trinity Guild has decided to answer the call of the local centennial committee for 1967 project suggestions by proposing a bowling alley for Cumberland. The guild also decided to hold a rummage sale in April but took no final stand on money-raising plans to coincide with Empire Day celebrations at the city park.

PORT ALBERNI—The $100 proceeds from a recent banquet and dance will be donated by the district NDP association to the Kinsmen to help pay the community's share of the Alberni health-centre cost. Association president Art Anderson said similar events are planned and 50 per cent of the proceeds will go toward health projects in the Alberni.

QUALICUM BEACH—The district fish and game association has elected Jack Erdley as president. Other officers include Ed Gosselin, vice-president; Robert Smart, secretary; Milton Ward, treasurer, and executive members P. McCaffery, B. Tait, J. Bowman, W. Dickinson and L. Dagway. The annual smorgasbord dinner will be held tonight and will feature presentation of annual trophies.

GANGES—Mrs. Austin Wilson has been elected president of the Lady Minto Gulf Islands Hospital women's auxiliary. Other officers are Mrs. Douglas Wilson and Mrs. Ernie Booth, vice-president; Mrs. R. T. Meyer, treasurer; Mrs. B. W. Markham, secretary; Mrs. A. Hudson, sewing convener; and Mrs. W. E. Dipple, publicity.

ALBERNI—The Red Cross flag will fly over city hall all through March as the local branch conducts its annual drive for funds. The flag was formally presented to the city by branch president Fred Malatterre and campaign chairman Douglas McNicol.

GANGES—More than 200 people attended the recent open house which marked the official opening of Leisure Lane, a four-lane bowling alley built by Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Ralph on their Ganges property. Larry Ginn won the door prize.

COURTENAY—Irwin Edwin Mallory has been fined $50 in magistrate's court after pleading guilty to assault against bartender Victor Hamilton Allan, who received minor facial injuries. In the same court, a juvenile previously charged with theft of parking meter heads was accused of stealing cigarettes from a car and sentenced to an indefinite term in the Brannan Lake boys' school.

PORT ALBERNI—Raymond Bouchard has been sentenced in magistrate's court in four months in jail on a charge of assault causing bodily harm. Edward William Greaves was fined $25 and given a two-month driving licence suspension for speeding.

Islanders Still In Hospital

A Galiano woman taken Wednesday to Victoria's Royal Jubilee Hospital for treatment of a diabetes condition continued in fairly good condition Friday.

Mrs. Daisy Hepburn, 55, collapsed in her home. Police broke in, commandeered a ferry and took her to Ganges. Later, a water taxi and ambulance completed the trip.

Meanwhile, three-year-old Carrie Ann Vermette was reported in only fair condition in a Vancouver hospital. She was flown to Vancouver Thursday after being hit by a car near her home, halfway between Royston and Cumberland.

Grass Fire Destroys Store

By KLAUS MUEENTER
LAKE COWICHAN — A grass fire which burned out of control about 1 p.m. Friday caused an estimated $20,000 damage to the Woodland Store on North Shore Road.

The prompt response of the Lake Cowichan volunteer fire brigade prevented total destruction of the one-story gift shop and dry-goods store, operated by Mr. and Mrs. Mel Lynum. The village works crew was said to have been burning the grass when flames grew out of control. They spread under the store, burned straight into the yard goods department and spread very quickly.

Fire chief Robert Weissmiller and other officials said there was some fire and smoke damage to the building, plate glass windows were broken and all the merchandise was damaged. The blaze reached the nearby Imperial Oil service station but was quickly extinguished and little damage was done. A garage, containing a 14-foot boat and located near the store, burned to the ground. No one was hurt. It is believed the loss was insured and the store will probably not reopen for a month or two.

North Cowichan

Double Vote April 10

NORTH COWICHAN — A special meeting of North Cowichan municipal council Friday afternoon set April 10 as voting day on two important issues.

The issues are two money bylaws which received the first three readings from council—$492,960 toward the $800,000 extra cost of the new Cowichan district hospital and $57,000 for sewerage services in the Quamichan Heights area.

POLLING STATIONS

All taxpayers in that part of North Cowichan which is in the Cowichan school district will vote on the hospital money by-law. Polling stations will be in the municipal hall in Duncan and at the Crofton, Maple Bay, Somers and Westholme schools.

The original cost estimate for the hospital was $3,500,000 but bids opened Feb. 26 ranged from $3,992,500 to $4,192,000.

FIGURES GIVEN

Other shares in this city are Duncan $70,140, the Lake Cowichan hospital improvement district $198,720 and the Koksilah hospital improvement district $138,180.

Duncan will also vote April 10 on the hospital issue.

The Quamichan Heights sewerage by-law will provide facilities to 86 lots and a private, eight-classroom school.

MUNICIPAL HALL

The polling station will be the municipal hall in Duncan.

Municipal officials said Friday medical officers have recommended installation of sewers in the area as it has already experienced septic tank trouble and a lot more problems could arise in the near future.

Naturalist Field Trip

The younger section of the junior branch of the Victoria Natural History Society will meet for a field trip to Christmas Hill, Monterey parking lot, 3:30 p.m. today.

DUNCAN — The Cowichan Fish and Game Association may have found a place to build a rifle range and possibly a clubhouse.

Association president Arnie Williams announced Friday the association decided Thursday night to investigate the possibility of buying a 10-acre tract at Deerholme, about 3½ miles southwest of here.

TARGET SHOOTING

He said the group had designed a gravel pit in the Cowichan Station area for target shooting but residents of the area objected. Mr. Williams said the 10-acre tract would be safe, with per-

Kinsmen to Buy Bunny Bus In Comox Valley

COURTENAY — Cumberland and Courtenay Kinsmen will buy a new Bunny bus for transportation of children at the school operated by the Comox Valley Association for Mentally Handicapped Children.

Association officials have learned the Kinsmen will sponsor a bingo game next month to help raise the money.

The two service clubs raised the funds to buy the present bus, which is too small and requires considerable maintenance to keep it operational for the 100-mile round trip each day.

Courtenay Kinsmen also are helping the association, through a walking doll. It is dressed in a manner designed to teach the use of buttons and zippers and so help the pupils to learn to dress themselves.

PROJECT SUGGESTED

The association has suggested to the district centennial committee that a school for the mentally handicapped to be considered as a Comox Valley 1967 centennial project.

Recreation committee chairman Wray Davis said he had included formation of a Scout troop, playground facilities and swimming as possible projects for association children.

Four Timber Firms Choose Road Boss

CAMPBELL RIVER — Four large timber firms in northern Vancouver Island have announced the appointment of Campbell River resident Donald Brealey as administrator of the Nimpkish Valley access road.

Mr. Brealey's job will be to co-ordinate information for the public on road conditions and road-use rules.

Drivers of private cars may obtain access permits at entry gates at the northern and southern ends of the road, but commercial vehicle owners should get in touch with Mr. Brealey at North Island Agencies at least one week before anticipated use of the road.

The four firms are Tahsis Co., Elk River Timber Co., Canadian Forest Products and Crown Zellerbach Canada Ltd.

By MILDRED KURTZ

PARKSVILLE — A number of longtime residents of this district, including those who helped buy Parksville Community Park land many years ago, have apparently had to drop plans for a protest petition.

About a dozen old trees, some of them quite large, were cut down recently to make way for the construction of a picnic shelter for which MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River donated $3,500.

HAVE NO SAY

There was some thought among the oldtimers about circulating a petition against this type of "desecration" of park property.

But the unhappy citizens learned that, since the park now is part of the municipality, those who originally financed the land purchase and who live outside the village have no say in the matter.

The park was purchased through public subscriptions from residents of Parkville, Errington, Coombs, Nanossee Bay and Hilliers and was administered through a community society. It was turned over to the village in 1963.

NECESSARY STEP

Village park development chairman Coun. Arthur Briggs said this week the trees were cut down as a necessary step in the first part of a program which, if completed, will cost about $100,000.

He said the program includes a paved road running parallel to the beach, the planting of trees near the seaford, more grass, additional changehouses, a beachfront picnic shelter, a boat launching ramp and many other features.

HELP REQUIRED

Coun. Briggs said the program will take 10 years to complete unless local organizations help council carry out various projects.

He was speaking to the Chamber of Commerce, which voted to help by supporting the proposal for a boat launching ramp.

Centennial Group Picks Four

COURTENAY — The Comox Valley centennial committee has chosen its leaders and issued its first list of suggested projects to mark Canada's 100th birthday in 1967.

William G. Lamb was elected chairman while Robert McKellar is vice-chairman, J. Colwell was named secretary and Sid Donaldson will be the treasurer.

DOZEN ITEMS

The project list already includes 12 items—a civic art centre and theatre, Indian museum, guide camp, art and repair workshop essentially for school dropouts, indoor pool, school for mentally handicapped, preservation of natural sites, senior citizens, recreation, Centennial Park expansion, logging and mining museum, Centennial foundation and skating rink.

ASKED TO APPEAR

The centennial planners decided each group suggesting a project will be asked to appear before a later meeting or meetings.

They also named subcommittees on programs, materials, touring events, publicity, outside promotion, local events and projects.

Car-Damage Hearing Postponed

NANAIMO — A preliminary hearing into a charge of wilful damage against a 50-year-old Vancouver supercargo has been postponed until later in the month.

Lloyd Green, who elected county court trial, is accused of taking an axe to the window of a car parked in front of the Malaspina Hotel Jan. 12. He was released Jan. 13 on $300 bail. The vehicle was owned by Mrs. Marie Den of Vancouver.

Campbell River Bill

Ways In, Out Provided By Campbell

Legislation to validate the creation of a new district municipality of Campbell River last December was introduced in the legislature Friday.

The bill, introduced by Municipal Affairs Minister Campbell, gives 34 residents of Quinsam and between 30 and 40 residents of Willow Point until May 31 to petition for their removal from the municipality.

It also gives the residents of North Campbell River and Quinsam Heights until Dec. 31, 1967, to decide by a majority vote of at least 60 per cent to join Campbell River.

OUT BY PETITION

Mr. Campbell said later the people of Willow Point may take themselves out of the municipality by petition.

But they would not, as a spokesman recently boasted, destroy the new municipality.

The minister said he is optimistic that, long before the 1967 deadline, North Campbell River residents will vote in favor of becoming part of the municipality.

"Campbell River is the richest village in B.C., and with the additional tax base assured I think the answer is obvious," said Mr. Campbell.

He has been criticized by opposition members this session for exceeding his authority in ordering the votes which led to creation of the municipality.

The bill to amend the Municipalities Enabling and Validating Act would provide the necessary authority.

MODEL-TOWN BILL

Mr. Campbell also brought in amendments to the Municipal Act which will allow the cabinet to create model towns in conjunction with the development of a natural resource.

This would apply particularly to Gold River, where a new town of 2,500 is planned nine miles from the site of a $50,000 pulp mill on which construction is to begin shortly.

The cabinet would be empowered to draw up a town plan for the new community. In the case of Gold River this is already being done.

Other model towns are planned at Port Alice on northern Vancouver Island, Endako, Stewart and possibly Hudson Hope.

July Cruise For Gary Long

An Oak Bay High School student has learned he has been selected to take part in a month-long summer cruise in foreign waters on a navy ship.

Gary Long, 17, of 1887 Hampshire, is a Sea Cadet of three years' standing at RCSCS Rainbow. The cruise begins in mid-July.

U.K. Students Coming in July

Ten British university students will visit Victoria in July.

The students, participating in the Experiment in International Living, will spend a month in private homes.

Victoria students may have the opportunity to go to Spain on the same plan.

Suspension Follows Car Death

UCHELET — A sentence of a three-year driving license suspension and a $250 fine has been imposed in magistrate's court on John L. Kampe on a charge of careless driving.

The charge followed a traffic accident last October, in which Uchelet resident Ronald Wrenge was fatally injured.

Cowichan

Festival Prizes Total 31

DUNCAN — Fourteen new trophies have been added to the list of 17 special prizes and trophies in former years for the 16th annual Cowichan music festival which begins March 18.

Festival officials announced Thursday the 14 new trophies have been donated in the past month by:

DONORS NAMED

Strathcona Lodge school for girls, Nowrath Jewellers Ltd., Duncan Super Service, Duncan and District Credit Union, Lake Cowichan Kiwanis Club, Lady-smith PTA, Peter's Bakery, Hayes Low Cost, Floral Art Shop, City Service garage, Duncan Radio and Electric, Duncan Iron Works Ltd., Butler Bros. Supplies Ltd. and Hillcrest Lumber Co.

HUNDREDS OF ENTRIES

More than 800 entries have been received, a total which the officials said "compares favorably" with last year.

First final night will be held in Cowichan Senior Secondary School auditorium March 27 and the second will follow in Quamichan Junior Secondary School auditorium April 3. A new feature will be a choral workshop for adults who conduct youth choirs.

POSTER WINNERS

Winners of the music festival poster contest were Brad Whitaker of Cowichan Station Elementary School, $3; Rickie Ismay of Maple Bay Elementary, $2; and Dean Paterson of Alexander Elementary, $1.

Runners-up were Des Bassett, Debra Castley, Annie Othman, Ronnie Clark and Sandy Campbell. The posters will be displayed next week at the Smith drug store on Station Street.

Fulford Can't Go It Alone

By BEA HAMILTON

FULFORD — The south end of Salt Spring Island has lost out in its request to go it alone on a project to mark Canada's 1967 centenary, but will apparently go ahead with the chosen job anyway—and before 1967.

Chairman L. J. Wallace of the B.C. centennial committee has announced the committee favors one project for the whole of the island.

He specifically cited the project chosen by the Salt Spring centennial committee, the boat basin park area in Ganges, saying this choice will be "the only one recognized by the provincial committee."

Mr. Wallace said his decision, which means any south-end share of per capita grants will go to Ganges, was taken to draw the island together as "one community."

Fulford residents decided at a meeting earlier this year to go it alone for two reasons—their share of the $1,000 grant for the island could help expand Fulford hall and a Fulford project would honor Fulford's pioneers and help Fulford's children.

Members of the Fulford hall committee say the grant share would have made all the difference between an immediate start and a year's delay in a "desperately needed" hall extension.

Now, they have indicated they are determined to find a way to carry on and may even do the work this year or next.

Jack Roland, president of the Fulford Athletic Club and vice-president of the hall committee, says, "We have too many young people depending on our activities in the hall not to keep trying."

He says Fulford people are "trying to see both sides of the issue, but feel the provincial committee failed us."

"Why didn't Mr. Wallace meet the citizens of Fulford?" asked Mrs. Bev Gibson. "That would have shown him the idea of a local project was not just the sudden whim of a few but the desire of all of us."

Mr. Roland and Bob Akerman did talk briefly to Mr. Wallace, pointing out the two ends of Salt Spring get along well together but adding many islanders only get to Ganges now and then.

As to the "one community" idea, longtime resident Mrs. Michael Gyves says, "There would always be someone left out of the celebrations. Many will never get to the boat basin park."

She added she doesn't think "the people on the island even know how despite the accommodation situation has grown at the Fulford hall."

The hall committee, which will

Hall Will Expand Anyway

call a public meeting soon to discuss plans for extensions, favors a new entrance and feels the gallery and stage are too small for spectators who crowd in for roller hockey.

Something close to 350 players took part in this and other sports activities during a recent week.

The hall is the home for roller hockey, roller skating, basketball, badminton, volleyball, other sports, teen dances, cabarets, flower shows, wedding receptions, concerts, suppers, teas and sales for clubs.

People like Mike Byron, teacher and physical education instructor at the high school in Ganges, say there is both co-operation and keen sports competition between the north and south ends of Salt Spring.

Mr. Byron, who helps run the athletic club, insists that "if we are to continue these sports in Fulford, we must have more space and room."

All in Fulford hope the island in general will back the two Fulford committees in their efforts to keep island activities alive and healthy.

'Red Dreams'

Young Nurse 'Ages' In Long Cave Test

NICE, France (UPI) — A pretty young French midwife emerged Friday after living 88 days alone in an Alpine cave. She found she was two weeks older than she thought.

"I made it Feb. 25 by my reckoning," Nurse Josie Lauree, 26, told reporters after rescuers brought her out into the sunshine after her voluntary ordeal 328 feet underground.

LONELINESS

Miss Lauree had been in the French Alpine cave since Dec. 14 as part of an unofficial French experiment to test the reactions of the human mechanism to conditions of isolation and loneliness similar to those of space flight.

"I was never bored," Miss Lauree said. "I read, I knitted, I wove baskets and listened to music on my tape recorder. But the last few days were getting increasingly tough on me. I felt a bit dejected and lost interest in everything around me."

Miss Lauree said the worst thing she experienced was the relentless red color of the walls of her cave, illuminated by her electric lamp.

FLOATING ON AIR

"At times I became obsessed by seeing everything red," she said. "I even had red dreams."

When she first emerged in her mudstained, red-quilted coveralls, the French nurse said: "I feel as if I am floating on air. I feel like an old woman."

The cave where the nurse spent her lonely 88 days was as big as a four-room apartment. She had a white mouse and three goldfish for company and played tape recordings of Beethoven and Mozart.

Colleagues Told

Pearson Weighing Election Chances

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson has informed close cabinet colleagues he is thinking of calling an early general election, informed sources say.

The informants said the prime minister outlined his views on a possible election at a war council with five key cabinet ministers Wednesday evening at his Sussex Drive residence.

TOP EMBELON

At the meeting were his Quebec leader, Justice Minister Guy Favreau, the Liberal party's campaign co-chairman, Finance Minister Gordon, Mr. Pearson's senior cabinet colleague, External Affairs Minister Martin, Transport Minister Pickersill, and Labor Minister MacEachen.

The prime minister is understood to have made no definite decision to call an election. In fact sources said many of his ministers, and probably a majority of the party's parliamentary caucus, are opposed to one at this time.

Those opposed to an election now argue Mr. Pearson's motivation—to deliver another blow to Opposition Leader Diefenbaker and to win a majority to produce a better climate in the Commons—is not a sufficient reason for calling a vote.

Letter from Lucky:

Is Lucien Rivard already out of the country?

The "Lucky Lucy" of the Dorion inquiry, now one of the most wanted men in Canada's history after escaping last week from Bordeaux jail in Montreal — indicates that he was ready to leave some time ago.

The disclosures came in a letter to Mrs. Rivard, postmarked Vancouver.

However, the letter was interpreted as a feint to throw them off the track by police, who still had not seen the letter last night.

An English translation of the letter was received late yesterday afternoon by The Daily Colonist.

The key part of the letter read:

"I'm leaving tomorrow for elsewhere. So in 15 days I will write you a word and if I find what I want and you want to join me, this will be a great pleasure to me."

Full text of the letter (translated from the French):

Good evening My Beautiful

Heart. It's with great pleasure I am taking a moment of liberty to write a few words. I hope that your health is good, also your family and my family.

My health is excellent but I am very tired.

Darling, I am very sorry for all the bad publicity I caused you and my mother.

Please forgive me, Angel, for all the sadness I am causing you, but it is a decision I took after your visit on Tuesday. (To Bordeaux Jail the day Rivard broke out.) Maybe you will think I lost my head but I thought that it was the only open door left for me.

It's too bad I did not think of this escape before because I would have directions to give concerning my case and our future "reunion."

This will be for later, if you still care for me.

This would have been so simple if they would have given me bail at first. Then

OPPOSITION LASHES OUT AT B.C. MEDICARE PLAN

Mansion To Hack

Out-of-town reporter Friday unmasked Chicago cab driver as William Casey Marland, 46, governor of West Virginia from 1953 to 1956—but Marland said he didn't mind. He admitted drinking root beer governor's and other jobs until he joined AA in 1961 and said driving a cab "is a good job for character composition."

His boss said, "He's a good driver. I'd hate to lose him." —(AP)

Egan

A telegram unsurpassed in U.S. political history was sent Friday by Alaska Governor William Egan to Alabama Governor George Wallace.

"From the depths of my heart, George Wallace, I consider you to be even more guilty than those who wielded the actual weapons that murdered James J. Reeb."

"When your judgment day comes, I hope that God, in his infinite grace, can find some way to lead mercy for your soul."

Gemini Flight

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. space agency said Friday the first orbital flight of two astronauts in a Gemini spacecraft may be attempted Monday, March 22.

Opposition members of the legislature lashed out Friday at a government bill designed to subsidize medical insurance premiums of low-income groups.

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan led the attack by declaring the bill "not a true health measure, not a true medicare plan."

He said the New Democratic Party supports the principle that every citizen has a right to medical care.

"This government believes medical care is a privilege to be granted on the basis of financial status," he said.

"Money or the lack of money will be the qualifying factor."

The opposition leader said that to say the bill provides for no means test "is absolutely false."

MUST BE POOR

"The individual's ability to prove he is poor will determine his right to qualify for subsidies under the bill."

Under the proposed Medical Grants Act, the government will pay half the premiums of approved non-profit insurance carriers for all persons who pay no income tax and 25 per cent of the premiums of those whose taxable income is under $1,000 a year.

The bill also provides for a stabilization fund under which premiums of poor risks would be held to a maximum level. The government would pay $1,000,000 a year into the fund.

IMPEDES PROGRESS

The NDP speakers said they would vote against the bill in second reading (approval) in principle because the proposed voluntary plan would only impede progress toward a comprehensive scheme.

William Hartley (NDP—Yale) said the legislature was being asked "to do less than nothing."

The plan was a road block to progress.

Debate on second reading went on nearly three hours and did not reach a vote.

HALF OF LOAF

Premier Bennett said the NDP policy was: "If you can't give them a whole loaf don't give them half a loaf."

The premier declared his government is firmly committed to joining a national health plan as soon as one is devised.

He said the NDP wanted B.C. to introduce a plan similar to Saskatchewan's, which had created "civil warfare."

"Class warfare, that's what you're for," he shouted.

The medicare plan had been

Director Dead

$4,000,000 Missing From Bank

NICE, France (AP) — The director of the Bank of Nice was found dead Friday and the bank closed down for an inventory.

Investigators found only $6,000 of the bank's listed deposits of $4,000,000, first reports said. If the money is lost, it could mean financial ruin for several construction companies, a number of other large businesses and many local depositors on the Riviera.

CAR IN WATER

A judicial inquiry had been opened against the bank's director, Louis Martinon, to determine if there had been any embezzlement. He was found dead at the wheel of his car under 13 feet of water in a reservoir.

COSTLY PROJECT

Martinon, 51, had been heavily involved in a large development project, including an amusement park, swimming pool and miniature train. Riviera business circles said the project had drained Martinon's entire personal fortune and he was struggling for additional funds to keep from losing it.

Martinon took over management of the bank in 1963 on the death of his father, the founder.

Four Charged

MEDELLIN, Colombia (AP) — Carlos Mejia Flores, the kidnapped nine-year-old son of a millionaire rancher-industrialist was rescued Friday in an afternoon raid on a house on the outskirts of Medellin. Four persons were arrested and charged with kidnapping.

Selma Bans All Marches

He Does, For One

WASHINGTON (LAT) — While most Americans squirmed over racial unrest in Alabama, a uniformed "storm trooper" of the American Nazi Party marched in front of the White House with a placard reading: "Who Needs Niggers?"

Leader of the three-man police guard that assured his safety was a Negro.

The action came as rain-soaked Negroes stood at a police barricade and pledged to walk to the courthouse in memory of a slain Boston minister.

The stalemate thwarted an attempted compromise by Leroy Collins, here as President Johnson's representative. Collins said city officials had agreed earlier to allow Negroes to walk in small groups to the courthouse. There hundreds of them had sought for weeks to register to vote.

In other developments today:

● At President Johnson's direction, an airplane flew to Birmingham to pick up Reeb's widow and father. The clergyman's body was cremated Thursday night and the ashes taken to the Casper, Wyo., home of the father.

● After four hours of consultations in Washington on the Alabama civil rights problem, Johnson was quoted as saying he "will not be blackjacked by any pressure of picketing" into precipitate action.

● Johnson agreed to confer with Alabama Governor George Wallace. "I will be available in my office at any time that is convenient to you," he told Wallace, who had telegraphed the White House for an appointment.

● A marathon, 230-mile relay run from New York to Washington will be staged beginning Sunday and using an unit "freedom torch." The final runner will attempt to present the torch to President Johnson Tuesday.

● Civil rights lawyers tried in federal court at Montgomery to obtain an order allowing a Selma-to-Montgomery protest march.

Canadian Trib

OTTAWA (U.P.) — Tom Barnett (NDP—Cemex-Alberni) suggested Friday the government send a "tribute to the memory of the late Rev. James Reeb" to President Johnson.
